Bonds for new, growing industry

By HARRY BARNES
of the Press-Record

Plans for two major industrial expansions in Granite City at a cost ranging from $12 million to $20 million were disclosed in actions by the City Council during a regular meeting Tuesday night.

In two separate actions, the council approved unanimously resolutions of intent to authorize the issuance of industrial revenue bonds to aid Nestle Company, Inc., to build a $2 million warehouse facility adjacent to its present plant, and to finance a $10 million high-speed coil coating plant for Chromalloy American Corp.

Neither resolution authorized issuance of the bonds at this time, pending completion of agreements between the principals under which the bond proceeds would be loaned by the city to the companies. The companies will guarantee payment of bond premiums and interest. They also would repay the city for any out-of-pocket expenses involved in formalizing issuance of the bonds and sale of the bonds.

In addition to a declaration of intent to issue $2 million in bonds for the Nestle plant project, the resolution involving that project also provides that in the event of overruns, additions to present plans or other excesses over present estimates the city can issue up to $10 million in bonds for the Nestle project.

That project calls for construction of a modern steel-framed building and installation of equipment necessary to storage of finished products in connection with the manufacture of instant tea.

The warehouse facility will double the company's present storage capacity, the resolution states.

The $10 million bond issue proposed for Chromalloy American Corp. would finance construction of a plant of 100,000 square feet and installation of a high-speed coating line for use in applying functional and decorative coatings to heavy-gauge coil steel.

According to documents approved by council members, the plant would be built near 21st Street between Edwardsville Road and Granite City Steel's North Plant on ground leased from Granite City Steel.

The city is permitted to issue industrial revenue bonds under its home rule authority to aid in industrial and business expansion. It has issued such bonds to assist St. Elizabeth Medical Center in an $18 million expansion program, and for Michigan Metals Corp. and Peralloy Corp. to install facilities here.

Mayor Paul Schuler told the aldermen that both of the projects are major industrial expansions which the city should assist in any way possible.

The resolutions stipulate that the city is not responsible for retirement of the bonds and provide that all bond and interest payments are to be made by the company for which the bonds are issued.

STRIKING CONTRAST greets the eye at Horseshoe Lake State Park as work to develop the park proceeds slowly.

ABOVE: Tons of carp died when conservation officials and volunteers drained the southern 148 acres of the lake to plant millet. The millet will grow above the water when the lake is refilled and will provide aeration for the water as well as seeds above the surface for ducks and doves. The project is to be completed by mid-October. Officials said the carp were stunned and would not have survived this winter.

BELOW: Some of the current improvements at the state park include this playground and the pavilion, which has picnic tables and barbecue pits. The lake is in the background, offering a view of the water and the island to picnic groups. Improved roadways, fishing coves, a causeway to the island, restrooms and cleaned natural areas are among the park's assets. Boats with up to 10 horsepower motors now are allowed on the lake.

Lake park being improved—slowly

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

While the waters of Horseshoe Lake may be calm this summer, the politics governing lake improvements for the developing state park there are just the opposite.

Petition drives, dead fish, no trespassing signs, boats and beer cans all are playing a part in determining how the state park-recreational area-wildlife refuge evolves.

Some fishermen are upset over the draining of the southern 148 acres of the lake, leaving literally tons of carp to die on the dry bottom.

Site Manager Matt Tueth explains the carp were all "stunned" by a lack of plants in that shallow portion of the lake and says the area has been drained to allow the planting of millet on the bottom.

The millet was planted by airplane drops of 4,600 pounds of seed Wednesday. Tueth noted that millet is a tall grass which will grow in standing water, and which produces seed at the top to feed ducks, doves and other kinds of wildlife.

As soon as the millet is tall enough, about two inches of water will be let into the now dry 148 acres of lakebed. The millet then will be allowed to grow and about mid-October the southern portion of the lake will be returned to the same water level as the rest of the lake, Tueth explained.

Duck hunters at the lake Tuesday noted that the millet will help aerate and improve the lake's southern portion, which was dying due to silting.

"As you can see, there was no vegetation on the bottom," one hunter said, pointing at the dry lakebed. "Without vegetation, there is no air in the water and the only fish which can live are catfish and carp like these."

"Their growth has been stunted and they have eaten so much mud they taste like mud. These fish are just no good for fishing," he concluded. Most of the

Venice police seek pay hike

By MICK STRANGE

Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols Tuesday night told the Venice City Council that he had received a letter from the Venice Police Department asking for an across-the-board increase of $100 per month in salary for police officers during the 1979-80 fiscal year.

The letter also requested an unlimited sick day accumulation and a change in vacation time which the police maintain is not what was agreed upon previously.

The letter, addressed to the council, said: "If the proposals submitted are not satisfactory to the council, a committee of three police officers has been chosen and would be more than happy to meet with members of the City Council to discuss the proposals."

Echols told the aldermen, "In view of the city's current financial problems, I find this proposal totally unacceptable. I would like the police aldermanic committee to meet with the police officers as soon as possible."

"I am sure everyone is aware of our financial situation. I certainly have

Special school vote Saturday

Venice voters will decide Saturday whether a nominal fee will be charged next year for textbooks used in the public schools, a common practice in most school districts, or if books are to remain free.

A referendum on the textbook proposition is required, as Venice residents authorized issuance of free books by vote in 1968.

Two polling places will be open Saturday from noon until 7 p.m. Precinct One polls will be located in the Venice Grade School gymnasium, 740 Broadway, Venice.

Precinct Two residents will cast ballots at the Eagle Park Improvement Association building, 100 Hill St., Eagle Park.

The recommended fee schedule sets amounts not to exceed $8 per year for special education and kindergarten pupils; $12 annually for grades 1 through 8; and $16 per year for students in high school.

Rescinding the free textbook vote is only one measure being attempted by the Venice Board of Education in its effort to partially offset rising costs and help reduce the district's dismal financial outlook.

The Venice School district is confronted with a deficit of $600,000 this year.

Even if voters approve the textbook referendum, the revenue produced will amount to only about half of the actual cost of textbooks purchased for the use of students.

Some of the textbook fees could be paid through state agencies, such as Public Aid, if families qualify. Supt. of School Robert N. Vickers noted at an earlier meeting of the school board.

Venice board members have discussed eliminating the books. The several occasions, but a decision was not made until comparison studies were completed involving book fee charges levied in other school districts in this region.

In the 1978-79 school year, a total of $14,296 was expended on textbooks in the Venice public schools.

Dime increase in school lunch price

The Granite City Board of Education on Tuesday night approved a ten-cent increase in the price of student lunches and a hike of 25 cents in the price of adult lunches.

New prices will be 60 cents for elementary students, 70 cents for secondary students and $1.50 for adults. School Lunch Program Director O. L. Overhulser told the board, "During the 1978-79 school year, 1,136,293 lunches were served of which 791,887 were fully paid, 271,036 were free lunches, 46,640 were reduced price lunches, and 26,730 were served without charge to student helpers."

"This was a decrease of 1,141 student lunches from the previous year. The decrease in free lunches (24,759) served was largely offset by increased paid lunches (19,270), but the shift cost the district about $6,500 because reimbursements for free lunches are greater than receipts for paid lunches."

"Additionally, 18,945 adult lunches were served, an increase of 1,675 over the previous year. This gives a net increase for the year in total lunches in all categories of 434.

"Assuming the same number of lunches served next year, the increases will bring in additional funds approximating $64,000."

"The present prices have been in effect since September 1977, the last two school years. The increase at that time seems to have had no adverse effect, since over the two-year period the total of all lunches served has increased by 72,664."

"The 1979-80 increase will be only the second over the last five years and is more than justified by cost increases sustained during that time."

"At the present time, the cafeteria operation for the past year shows a loss of about $64,000, which will be reduced by a cash payment to be made by the federal government in lieu of commodities not received."

"This payment, estimated between $15,000 and $20,000 will leave a loss between $49,000 and $44,000. Projecting minimal cost increases in the program for next year would increase the current year loss by about $59,000. Without any price increases, a loss of about $100,000 would be quite probable."

"The increased prices providing $84,000 can enhance our chances greatly for a break-even operation."

"Other districts in the area are making increases and our prices will be comparable. Edwardsville is making a 5-cent increase from 85 to 90 cents elementary and 90 to 95 at secondary."

"Collinsville is increasing 10 from 50 to 60 cents elementary and 55 to 65 secondary. Alton is increasing student prices to 65 and 75."

"Roxana and East Alton are considering a 10-cent price increase. Wood River is also increasing prices 10 cents. Some districts do not include dessert in the base price of lunches."

"Increases on a la carte food items are in a five to ten-cent range. 'A student price of seven cents for milk is likely,' Overhulser said."

Mechanic's liens filed up to two years after work

If you are a homeowner or a prospective homeowner and you don't know the meaning of the legal term "mechanic's lien," now is a good time to learn, according to the Illinois State Bar Association.

"Most contractors who make alterations, additions or improvements to your property at your request and who have not been paid within a certain time period are entitled to a lien or claim against your property for the cost of their labor and materials."

"Contractors have within two years after the work is completed to file a claim with the County Recorder's office where the real estate is located."

"In the case of personal property, the law does not give a creditor the right to enforce a lien by actual possession of the real property. But it does allow the creditor to establish an encumbrance against your property."

REINHARDT—Realtor
Bells—BETTER LIVING

When a lien is attached to property, it could interfere with the sale or transfer of the property or, in some cases, cause a foreclosure sale of the property so that the bill will be paid from the proceeds.

The Illinois State Bar Association has offered several suggestions to prospective homeowners and to homeowners who are considering home improvements which require outside professional help.

For the prospective homeowner: before buying property, have your attorney check to make sure that the property is clear of liens which might have been filed as a result of past improvements made by the previous owner.

Also, your attorney may require the seller to furnish an affidavit to the effect that all bills for materials, services and labor within the past two years have been paid. If you fail to do this and you buy the property, you could end up responsible for such liens.

For the person planning construction on property already owned: require the contractor to give you an affidavit—a notarized statement—which lists the names of all the subcontractors, their addresses and the amounts of their subcontracts.

Before paying the contractor, ask for waivers from subcontractors waiving their rights to liens in connection with the work that was done along with waiver of liens from their material suppliers.

Compare the contractor's sworn statement to the waivers to be sure that all liens have been waived as to the amount due or requested.

Finally, one of the best guarantees of a job free of legal hassles is to hire a contractor with a good reputation and an established place of business; ask for references or check with the Better Business Bureau or Chamber of Commerce to determine whether any complaints have been made against the contractor.

Summer camp season ends

The final week of the summer camping season at Boy Scout Camp Sammen began Sunday.

Scouts and leaders attending from the Unihav district are: Troop 12, Niedringhaus School PTA, Matt Barrios and Donald Hagen, leaders; Scouts, Philip Hagen, Richard Hagen, Frankie Harrison, Michael Voss, Ronnie Barrios, Todd Miller, Robert Luffman, Perry Luffman.

Troop 20, Webster School PTA, David Nicol and Frank Patton, leaders; Scouts Glen England, Mike Alfaro, Frank Schwerdtman, David Hahn, Paul Hardison.

Troop 1, Venice-Madison Post 307, Joseph Bargiel leader; Scouts James Green, Albert Banks, Marcus Chapman, Elgin Bailey, and Curtis Atkins.

'Marie Antoinette' economics

Wall Street Journal—There was a time when governments brought themselves to ruin by fixing the price of bread.

The measure, intended as a popular gesture, soon drove the mainstay of the poor's diet from the shops.

People, finding themselves with nothing to eat, would riot in the streets, usually burning the few remaining bakeries as well.

Judging from recent events there is one government that still engages in this folly—only today it is the price of gasoline that is fixed.

The entirely predictable result is to raise the real cost of gasoline.

People find themselves spending hours of income-earning or leisure time searching for open stations and waiting in line, often for naught.

As the strains and dislocations have mounted an alarmed president has retreated to Camp David with his political advisors to discover a solution.

Judging from reports, the president is about to upstage that famous person who solved the bread shortage by recommending that the

We won't know for sure people eat cake. The modern equivalent of cake is synthetic fuel.

His new plan: instead of calling off his war against the law of demand—and thereby giving himself and everyone else a much-needed rest from crisis politics—he will intensify it.

The gasoline price and allocation controls that drove him to Camp David are to be retained, but there will be some tinkering with allocations to shift the shortage from area to area about the country.

Just as a region approaches the riot point, the lines will be moved to another region by diverting its allocation to the trouble spot.

With any luck, the thinking goes, the allocators can juggle a balance between waves of relief and rising anger until forced cutbacks elsewhere can free up some oil.

To further relieve the pressure, the government has issued an edict, due to take effect now, regulating air conditioning, heating and hot water temperatures at work places.

Workers will be hotter this summer and colder next winter.

Tepid showers will be the rule.

All this will save 200,000 to 400,000 barrels of oil a day, the government calculates. When this amount proves insufficient, proclamations can be issued regulating the allowable purchases of clothing made with petroleum-based synthetic fibers or rationing petroleum-based fertilizers, plastics and medicines.

Thereby saving still more oil at some risk of unemployment and other easy-to-manage complications. Or have we wandered into fantasyland?

Maybe not. The energy plan also will call for a massive diversion of the nation's capital and human resources into a government synthetic fuel program.

If all goes well, in a decade we'll have a million barrels of synthetic fuel a day.

But what reason is there to expect that things will go well enough even to obtain that relatively unimpressive supply for all the billions that would have to be spent?

Even if Congress should approve an appropriation, the synthetic plants would face enormous obstacles in existing environmental law and from environmental groups.

They are, in a word, dirty. And there is the problem of their need for vast quantities of scarce water if built in the West near raw materials.

Whose water rights will be violated? How much time will litigation eat up?

A new Rand Corp. study describes even more awesome economic complications.

New technologies are typically subject to cost overruns ranging from an average of 250 percent of original estimates to as high as 500 percent.

Thus the estimated minimum $40 billion for a synfuels program could end up as high as $200 billion.

An all-out $80 billion program could double that.

To give some idea of scale, $400 billion was more capital than was raised in the entire U.S. economy last year.

Aside from the question of ending up with inefficient, obsolete technology after a crash effort, there is the matter of diverting capital resources from the rest of the economy.

Why do that while at the same time discouraging the development of natural energy resources through price controls?

The costs of abandoning the market are huge. Some quantity of other goods and services is given up for each person employed as a temperature inspector.

And for every gallon of synthetic fuel gained, society gives up the products that a different use of the labor and capital would have produced.

The market guarantees that the "output" of its products is worth more than the input used to produce them" but the government does not.

A "National Emergency" is hanging heavy in the Camp David air.

Before the President announces the power he should consider whether his political interests are served by broadening the gasoline shortage to all the other resources that can be controlled once a national emergency is declared.

The president would do better to leave the energy problem to the market.

Marie Antoinette's example is hardly a model for political success.

Displays to show services by Dixon's office

Alan J. Dixon has announced that an inside portable display outlining three major programs in his office will be at the Madison County Fair in Highland from Monday, July 23, through Friday, July 27.

Secretary of State Dixon said a facility representative will accompany the display to explain new and existing services to fairgoers, including (1) Photo Drivers License and Identification Card Program; (2) Vanity License Plate Program; and (3) Auto Theft Prevention Plan.

"Our office constantly is taking steps to improve services to the public, and portable displays provide us with a convenient way to give you the information," Dixon said.

"My representatives are highly qualified to answer questions on any program or services that we offer."

Dixon said that Secretary of State publications, including Rules of the Road booklets and informational pamphlets, will be available.

Clean water board organizing despite rejection by some

Granite City and Madison will not have members on the body responsible for planning clean water in this region, at least not for one year, since they did not join the regional program in time to have a candidate in last night's election of members to the 208 clean water board. The Quad-City area, and the county, will be represented by Rod Bauder of Venice, who was previously appointed to the three-county Area-wide Management Coordinating Board (AMCB) by Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer.

Woman raped

A 37-year-old Edna Street woman told police yesterday morning that two visitors in her home had molested her and one of the men had raped her about 4:30 a.m.

She said there had been a birthday party at the home and those guests who stayed went to sleep in various parts of the house. Two late guests arrived and she admitted them and offered them a drink.

When she went to the bathroom, one man followed her in, she reported. When they came out of the bathroom, the other man tore her halter top off and both men molested her, she reported.

The man who had followed her to the bathroom held her while the other removed her bottom clothing. She then was dragged into the kitchen and was raped by the man who had torn her top off, she said, adding that he held his hand over her mouth to keep her from waking other persons sleeping in the home.

After the rape, the two men left, police were told. She was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for examination.

One man she named was picked up at his home by Madison County sheriff's deputies and was taken to the Granite City police building at 6:45 a.m. Wednesday. He was questioned by detectives and was later released, pending additional investigation.

County OKs sewer plans

The Madison County Board yesterday gave authority to the board chairman, Nelson Hagnauer, to sign an application Stanley Lucas, area home developer, must submit to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency before he can construct sanitary sewers in Town & Country East, Sixth Addition.

The issue has been the topic of a disagreement between Lucas and members of the county's special sewer committee, who feel subdividers should use the district's engineer and a contractor selected by the committee to install sanitary sewers, since the county will own the sewers when they are completed.

The board indicated Lucas will have to post a performance bond, before beginning construction of the sewers. EPA approval also is required.

The full board will hold its organizational meeting at 1:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 16, at the office of the Southwestern Regional Planning Commission (SIMARPC) in Collinsville.

Appointments by county board chairman to the AMCB were Bauder for Madison County, Jack Norman for Monroe County and Victor Canty for St. Clair County.

News notes

If Secretary of State Alan Dixon leaves that post to become a U.S. senator, State Sen. Sam Vadalabene of this district hopes to gain election as secretary in 1982.

Opponents of an Ill. Power Co. rate hike this week alleged poor management in building its Clinton nuclear power plant.

Congress is taking preliminary steps to require registration of young men for possible military induction.

Economist calls fuel policy unwise

Continued and increasing federal involvement in oil and meeting energy needs, the economist said the path being charted by Pres. Carter seems to reflect a belief in government solutions and control rather than reliance on free enterprise. Johnson said price decontrol might initially boost gasoline by three cents a gallon but that this would settle ultimately at about one cent. He answered many questions from the luncheon gathering.

Speaking at SIUE before a meeting of the Southwestern Illinois Industrial Association, with SIUE Pres. Kenneth Shaw and his staff as guests, Johnson said it is doubtful that the government will be the most efficient developer of synthetic fuels but that the big U. S. role will discourage private research.

Urging that the market place be allowed to function, Johnson said the path being charted by Pres. Carter seems to reflect a belief in government solutions and control rather than reliance on free enterprise.

New Madison school ready for fall term

The academic section and cafeteria of the new Madison Middle school will be finished by Aug. 15, according to a report by the contractors to Superintendent of Schools John Palchett.

The gym and vocational section is not expected to be completed until the first part of October, but Palchett said he feels this will not stop the use of the new school at the beginning of the new term in September.

At a special meeting of the Madison Board of Education Monday night, the board reviewed bids from seven companies on teachers' desks, chairs, cafeteria tables and other smaller items.

Representatives of the various companies were present with several samples.

The board gave the administration authority to purchase the items needed on low bid, provided quality is acceptable.

The sale of the Dunbar and junior high school was reviewed. The two buildings will be offered for auction on Friday, July 27. The auction of Dunbar school will take place at 9:30 a.m. at the school, Third and Jackson streets; the auction of the junior high school will be at 10:30 a.m. at Third Street and Alton Avenue.

The board may refuse any bid and place the buildings back on the auction block.

Details of the auction were published in the Granite City Press-Record on July 9 and July 16 and will be published again on Aug. 15 as a legal notice.

The board awarded a contract to Butler Carpeting of Granite City, low bidder at $5.14 to replace carpeting in the administrative offices and library at Madison High School.

The board also replaced seven Royal typewriters at the high school with new ones at $300 each from B & P Royal of East St. Louis.

The board also decided at Monday's meeting the beginning of the 1979-80 school year all students at MHS will wear gym uniforms in physical education classes. The exact makeup of the gym uniforms has not been determined.

The board will hold a regular meeting at the board office, 1707 Fourth St., Madison, at 7:30 p.m. today.

GC park Olympics Saturday

By VALERIE EVENEDEN of the Press-Record

Pennants will fly and brightly colored balloons, filled with helium, will soar upward to mark the start of the 1979 Junior Olympics, promptly at 9 a.m. Saturday at Diamond 8 in Wilson Park.

The youthful athletes marching into center field to the theme from "Rocky" will be children who are participating in the Granite City Park District's summer playground program at six local centers.

All the contestants are being urged to report to Diamond 8 in Wilson Park before 8:30 a.m. Saturday.

The public is invited to witness the competition which includes track and field events.

The Star Spangled Banner will open the ceremonies and precede the lighting of the "Olympic Torch."

Nancy Polson, director of the park summer recreation program, will declare the games open.

At that time, the children will release the var-color balloons and prepare to begin the contests, opening with field events.

Youngsters taking part will represent Nanticoke, Wilson, Niedringhaus, and Webster school playgrounds and the Park District Community Center in Lincoln Place.

Name tags, recording the individual athlete's playground center, age division and events, will be distributed prior to 8:30 a.m. by the recreational leaders and aides from the six centers.

Parents are being asked to see that children involved in competition wear tennis shoes and comfortable clothing, Miss Polson said. She added that spikes on footwear are not permitted.

Events will be held for three age levels—miles, midages and juniors.

A special "long distance" race is planned for all children, regardless of age division, at the conclusion of the games.

The distance course will start at Diamond 8, and continue along the white rock pathway to the Wilson Park pool and back.

In the field events, a softball roll will get action under way for boys and girls in the miles division.

Midjet and junior boys and girls will compete separately in shotput and high jump.

Obstacle races for boys and girls in all three age levels and a running long jump event for girls in the miles division and boys in the midjet and junior divisions also are arranged.

Track events include:

Miles—20-yard dash and 20-yard sack race for boys and girls.

Midjets—40-yard dash for boys and girls and 40-yard relay (mixed teams).

Juniors—60-yard dash for boys and girls and 60-yard relay (mixed teams).

Head judges will be Harold Brown, Granite City Park District director, Bill Ruskick and Miss Polson.

Event judges in track will be Susan Bell, Wally Fenton and Marion Doty.

Keith Sykes will be starter, assisted by Joe Valencia and Todd McFarland.

Tape holders will be Christie Wickham and Debbie Morris.

Field event judges will include most of those mentioned and Andy Hinterser, Jay Osborne, Nancy Cuvier and Paula Wise.

The event winners, together with the second and third place finishers, will stand on a raised platform to receive their ribbons from members of the Granite City Park Board of Commissioners and the park director.

"We hope everyone will come out and provide encouragement to the young athletes," Miss Polson said this week.

Pontoon OKs budgets

Budgets totaling $341,800 for the 1979-80 fiscal year have been approved by the Pontoon Beach Village Board.

The new budgets are $11,189 higher than the budgets which totaled $330,611 in the previous fiscal year.

The new general fund budget of $306,000 is $6,019 higher than the budget of $299,981 last year.

The federal revenue sharing budget declined from $20,580 last fiscal year to $18,500 in the new budget, a $1,880 drop reflected the decreased levels of federal aid expected this year.

Also declining is the sewer fund budget, which was approved at $7,900, down $150 from the $8,050 appropriated for that fund last fiscal year.

The board also approved a $7,000 budget for spending its anti-recession fiscal assistance act funds.

In other business, the board unanimously voted to refuse to renew the business license to the Green Dragon Health Spa at 3901 Lake Drive.

It was alleged the massage parlor did not comply with the village's ordinance regulating massage parlors, including a provision that all masseurs or masseuses must be registered and have certificates showing training in that field.

Sent a letter of intent to the county's Manpower office informing them the village intends to hire two policemen currently under that grant program when Manpower funding expires in September.

Patrolmen Michael Crouch and Michael Stalcov currently are on the department, paid by Manpower.

The letter of intent gives them more job security and will keep them with the village, officials said.

Complaints about unrepaid streets and yards after new sanitary sewers were installed were voiced by some residents of the Lakeview Estates Subdivision during the board's meeting, including fears standing water and weeds would breed mosquitoes.

TAKE FENCE DOWN

About 100 feet of chain-link fencing was removed from the fence posts at Bethel Chapel, 25th and Ohio streets, early this week, but was left laying in the field nearby.

Police believe someone intended to return and take the eight-foot tall fencing.

Park district trip to Nashville 'opry'

Reservations will be accepted at the Wilson Park office starting at 9 a.m. Aug. 25.

Excursionists from here will stay at the Albert Pick Motel in Nashville and will attend the opry's 3 p.m. matinee show Aug. 25.

Further details may be obtained by calling the park office at 877-3055.

$5,000 bond set on youth

Festus Brown, 16, of 1022 College St., Venice, is being held in Madison County jail pending posting of $5,000 bond on a charge of theft.

Brown allegedly tried at 12:08 p.m. Saturday to steal $12 from the cash register of the Madison Lawn and Equipment Store, 1423 Second St., Madison.

The youth was allegedly caught running out of the store by the store owner and the owner's son.

LEWIS AND CLARK HERITAGE MEMORIAL

$136,000 APPROPRIATION, SIGNED Monday by Gov. James R. Thompson, will enable construction to start soon on 12 three-sided columns arranged around a large boulder at the Lewis and Clark Park near Highway 39 in Chouteau Township. The columns will signify the dozen states traversed by the two explorers, and each will contain plaques relating the story of the journey. The boulder will be from the place in Montana where Lewis and Clark crossed the Great Divide. There will be present U.S. and Illinois flags, and the 1804 national flag. A giant arrow recessed in the ground will point to the confluence of the Mississippi and Missouri rivers. The designer is David L. Weimer, a Rockford landscape architect.

Let contract for North bleachers

A contract for installation of a telescopic bleacher seating system in the gymnasium at Granite City High School was approved by the Granite City Town Board Tuesday night. The Town Board, made up of Granite City aldermen, accepted a low bid of $22,616.

Man charged in incident in car here

Donald H. Ralston, 30, of 38 Briarcliff Drive, was arrested at his home at 11:50 p.m. Tuesday and was charged with a state charge of disorderly conduct.

About 10:30 p.m. Tuesday, he allegedly refused to allow an 18-year-old girl to get out of his car and exposed himself to her.

The girl said she was walking on Madison Avenue in front of Granite City High School South when a car stopped and the driver offered her a ride.

She accepted and asked to be taken to Grand Avenue, but the man drove to Maryville Road, then to Pontoon Road where he tried to molest her while he was driving, she alleged.

She said she refused his requests and jumped out of the moving car at 23rd Street and Washington Avenue. She ran to a nearby liquor store and managed to get the license number of the car as it left, police were told.

Tracing of the license number led to arrest of Ralston, who was released after posting $100 cash bond.

Arrest boy, 14

One youth was caught and another is being sought in connection with an attempt to steal the wheels from a bicycle in the rear yard at the home of Linda Cantlon, 1206 Granite Ave., at 12:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Gerald Sorenson, 1205 Meridian Ave., said he heard a noise in the alley behind his home and found two boys around the bicycle in the Canton yard.

Sorenson held the two and yelled for his wife to call police. One boy broke free and ran, but Sorenson held the other until police arrived, it was reported.

The boy, 14 years old, was released to his mother on a notice to appear before juvenile authorities on a curfew charge. He allegedly admitted the incident and said he and his friend intended to take the wheels with a wrench police recovered at the scene.

Charge filed in car incident

Bruce A. Snyder, 18, of 2823 Denver Ave., was charged with disorderly conduct for allegedly filing a false police report in connection with a vehicle at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The auto in question, a 1969 Dodge Charger operated by another man, was involved in a police chase through the West Granite area at 12:40 a.m. Tuesday, according to police.

The driver and a passenger abandoned the vehicle in an alley at the rear of the 2800 block of Morgan Avenue and fled from the scene when the car ran into the guide wire of a utility pole.

The man who was driving the car still is being sought by police.

Snyder was released from custody on notice to appear.

Woman hurt, man charged

Paula Beck, 23, of 2825 Dole Ave., was admitted to St. Elizabeth Medical Center at 3:38 a.m. Wednesday suffering multiple abrasions to hands, arms and legs, and a bump to the head.

Police officers allegedly heard screams in the 700 block of State Street. When they went to the area it appeared quiet, but a few minutes later the officers found Paula Beck on Madison Avenue.

John M. Kellick, 35, of 710 State St., Madison, later was charged with battery and released on $65 bond.

Moose lodge inducts 10

Granite City Moose Lodge 272 inducted 10 new members at a special program, followed by dinner and dancing, at the Moose clubrooms, 19th and Adams streets, last week.

Elmer Dintelmann of Mascoutah, past deputy supreme governor, was the guest speaker.

About 200 witnessed the initiation ceremony. The Edwardsville lodge conducted the degree rituals. New members of the Granite City Moose are:

Paul Schellingberger, James Holmes, William Cochran, Robert Whitehead, Leland Brackett, Thomas Gaines, Elmer Holton, Charles Jakul, David Gregory and Neil Fitzgerald.

Women of the Moose Chapter 247 served a buffet luncheon prior to the enrollment procedure.

Music for dancing was provided by Chuck Gibbons Country Playboys.

DONK'S DRIVE-IN LIQUOR IS QUICKER!

attending were: Helen Burke of Brookfield, Ill., deputy regent of Illinois, and her husband, Bill Burke; Earl Arnold, Edwardsville, District 10 ritual chairman;

Frank Kubie of O'Fallon, District 10 prelate; and Boyd Presley of Granite City, District 10 treasurer and a past governor of the Granite City lodge.

No gambling at fall festival

There will be no gambling or games of chance at this year's Mitchell Athletic Association Fall Festival Sept. 7, 8 and 9, the Chouteau Town Board was told Monday night.

Recent warnings by Madison County State's Attorney Nicholas G. Byron that gambling will not be allowed at homecomings, festivals and other gatherings in Madison County has led to the modifying of plans for numerous festivals.

MAC asked the Chouteau Town Board Monday night to request Madison County Sheriff's Deputies for security at this year's event and gave assurances that the festival will be conducted within the law.

The board agreed to hire

Gene Cooper of Mitchell on an as-needed basis to operate the township's mosquito spraying truck. Cooper was one of those who participated in a pesticide course held at the township hall last month and who then passed his certification test on use of the chemicals.

Several zoning violations were discussed and officials were informed that a mobile home on Old Alton Road near Burton's Subdivision where an old hearse and a tow truck are being kept has been brought to the attention of county officials and the alleged zoning violations involved have been referred to the state's attorney's office for action.

Neighbors alleged the old vehicles and the condition of the yard cause an eyesore.

Delay final vote on utility tax

Final passage action on an ordinance establishing a tax of one-half of 1 percent on consumption of gas and electric power in Granite City was deferred by the City Council Tuesday night.

The delay on presenting the measure for enactment was authorized on a motion by Third Ward Alderman Paul Fisk, chairman of the council's ordinance committee who said one clause of the bill has raised questions, which must be reviewed with the possibility of amending the measure.

The special tax, designed to raise $1.3 million which the city still needs to construct the proposed $5.2 million downtown overpass, was placed on first reading in the July 3 council session. Fisk explained that the bill as originally drafted provides that the tax shall be collected by the utilities, and that the tax shall be distributed to the city on July 30 of each year.

He noted that under a technical interpretation, the utilities could retain all of the tax collected after Aug. 1 of each year until July 30 of the following year.

Consequently, Fisk told the aldermen, it was decided more frequent distribution of the tax should be stipulated more clearly in the tax measure.

The special tax has been protested by industries and businesses which, city officials admit, would pay the greater portion of the taxes collected.

THEFT IS CHARGED
Jessie L. Parron, 57, of 1707 Market St., Madison, has been charged with a misdemeanor count of theft for allegedly removing about 40 pounds of tin-lead anodes from N.L. Industries, 16th Street and Cleveland Blvd., last week. Police said he was employed there and was stopped while leaving work. The metal allegedly was found in his lunchbox.

The law provides a $100 exemption on the bill of each customer monthly. Officials say this would eliminate payment of the tax by most households.

The special tax was recommended by an ad hoc committee of the council members after the Housing and Urban Development Agency rejected a city grant application for enough money to finance the balance of cost for the overpass.

ALLEGED THEFT
Jeffrey Scott Perryman, 19, of 3607 Kirkpatrick Homes, was charged at 1:20 p.m. Tuesday with theft for allegedly stealing "an automobile engine from the rear yard of the home of Larry Hahne, 3003 Myrtle Ave. July 12. Police alleged Perryman and another young man, who has not been identified, took the engine, telling a neighbor they were going to repair it for the owner.

catfish went through the culvert and escaped the draining of the southern portion of the lake, he added.

Yesterday, as an airplane dropped the millet seed, conservation officials allowed fishermen to wade into the drained part of the lake and net live fish from the puddles which remained.

Fishermen have been given some concessions and more freedom than fishermen is anticipated, according to Bob Becker, owner of Sandy Lake Fishing pond near the lake.

Due to a petition drive in which 560 fishermen with current fishing licenses signed a request that boats be allowed on the lake, the state Department of Conservation agreed three weeks ago to allow boats with up to 10 horsepower motors on the lake.

"For years, we have been trying to get boats on the lake and the state just said, 'It will cause too much hassle. Now we have boats on the lake. Thanks to the petition drive and State Rep. Everett Steele (R-Glen Carbon), we finally convinced them," Becker said, adding, "there has not been any hassle."

The state is prohibiting fishing with drag nets, trot line (fishing lines having up to 50 hooks on each) or "jug" fishing in which lines with multiple hooks are hung from bottles which float on the surface of the water.

Becker disagrees with most of the restrictions. "This lake has been commercially fished since my father moved here in 1930 and it has not hurt the fish population one bit. Six years ago, the state came in and purchased the lake with our money and then told us we could not fish like we have for decades."

"I am starting another petition drive seeking 400 signatures of licensed fishermen asking the state to allow trot fishing and jug fishing and I predict that next year at this time, it will be legal. I am sure of it. There is just no reason to prohibit it," Becker stated.

Becker is asking licensed fishermen to come to Sandy Lake and sign petitions to open the lake to trot and jug fishing.

"Even our regular fishing license allows you to fish anywhere with up to 50 hooks, but someone up in Springfield or Alton (Department of Conservation officials) decided they didn't want it here. So, bang, they pass a regulation denying us that right," he added. State control from Springfield or Alton is a major problem in developing the lake park, according to Becker. "If they would just leave Matt Tuetz alone, he would have a nice park and a good place. But in many matters, his hands are tied," Becker contended.

"One example is the western side of the lake. The state has bought most of the property over there, but has given one landowner keys to the gate and he closes it off every evening."

"Matt can't do anything over there and anyone who goes over there is risking arrest on a charge of criminal trespass to property," Becker asserted. Landowner William Nichols told the Press-Record public land on the west side of the lake is closed because it is surrounded by private land, owned by himself, Granite City Steel and others, and the public land cannot be reached without crossing private property and using a private road maintained by Quality Sand Co.

Because of trash dumping, marijuana parties and other problems in the Bend Road area, the state has agreed to keep the area blocked off, except to the Sand Company and the property owners, Nichols commented. He also said that arrests being made on the west side of the lake are because people are trespassing and fishing on private property. Even the Alton & Southern Railroad right-of-way is banned from fishing and persons fishing the Bend Road or railroad right-of-way are subject to arrest, he said.

Another instance where the state is interfering with the lake's development, according to Becker and a group of hunters who accompanied this reporter on a tour of the lake Tuesday, is that volunteers are discouraged from helping with improvements.

"A group of us hunters and fishermen got together and purchased 14 tons of blacktop to build a nice boat ramp here by Sandy Lake. We got it half finished and the state came in and said they didn't want any volunteer work done and made us stop," Becker said.

He added, "That just doesn't make sense." One fisherman stated, "A lot of us have put good money into this lake. We bought asphalt for the boat ramp, and seed for the seeding of the bottom on the south end.

"And we have devoted many hours to helping pump the south end dry. Yet the state comes in and says they don't want any volunteer help. We just want to make this a nice park and a good place to hunt and fish and we don't mind giving our time and money to see it happen."

"We spent nine days and 16 hours mowing pumps around the clock to pump the south end dry. The state could not have done it with eight-hour workdays. They furnished the pump and gasoline and we did the work until they came in and said someone from the state had to be with us and they did not want just volunteers mowing the pumps," the hunter said.

All those present agreed the park has many needs, the main one being money. There is only one tractor to mow the grass and weeds and it is broken now. The two DOC maintenance employees do not even have a push mower to mow the grass.

"They spend their day picking up beer cans," Becker said. One maintenance worker told him the time spent picking up trash and beer cans accounts for nearly three days of the five day work week for the two employees.

When people get hunting and fishing licenses, it is printed on the back that littering is prohibited and fines range from $25 to $500 per offense. "You have to catch them, that is difficult to do when the state will not assign a security man down here," Becker said.

"We need security. The state says they have no money, but they have money to build two new state parks."

"The law also says there is to be no alcohol in state parks, but the beer cans are evidence that the law is being violated," Becker added.

"It is our money they are building this park with and we think we should have some say in what they are going to do with the lake and land we are buying. Prohibiting trot fishing and jug fishing is keeping people from eating the fish out there."

"People are starving and there are free fish here, but they cannot catch them in quantity. This is how government rules can break down the morale of the people," Becker concluded.

explained it enough and it has been well reported in the newspaper.

"In regard to vacation time, we need to check the book and see how the ordinance reads. This applies to sick-day policies and vacations."

"We may have to take some action, but this must be acted on right away."

A spokesman for the police department said Wednesday that there are officers who have been taken sick leave. The officer, who asked not to be named, said that the sick leave policy the city is studying for adoption is unfair to police, as they do not abuse it.

The sick leave policy under consideration allows for 12 sick days a year, with limited accumulation up to 36 days. Several police officers have over 10 years services with no use of sick time, it was reported.

Council reverses decision, grants car allowance

Responding to a personal idea by James Stack, director of manpower activities in the Granite City sanitation department, the City Council Tuesday night reversed an earlier decision and voted to give Stack a 15-cent per mile travel allowance for use of his own car in carrying out his duties.

Stack was given permission to address the council after the aldermen voted in a July 3 meeting to reject a suggestion by Alderman Sam Whitmer, chairman of the council's sanitation committee, to allow the mile reimbursement because trucks or other cars are unavailable for Stack's use.

Stack, who said he directs the operations of 64 Manpower and CETA workers and is responsible for seeing these men get to their job locations, asked the council members to reconsider their earlier action, noting that payment of a mileage fee does not set a precedent that might result in similar requests.

Several other city employees receive an allowance for using their own cars and this practice will by no means be anything new," Stack said. Council members rejected the earlier request for the allowance on arguments that approval of the request might result in more such demands.

It was noted that Stack is required to visit job sites on which manpower employees are working throughout the day and that car transportation is essential. He said the department has only one truck and an old car formerly a police vehicle, in use at this time. The budget provides for acquiring a vehicle and the mileage fee would be needed only until such time as use of a city car becomes available to him, Stack said.

Mayor Paul Schuler noted that the sanitation department workers conducting summer cleanup programs, the cleaning of alleys and streets and similar projects, "has done a very fine job."

Alderman Paul Fisk of the Third Ward moved that Stack be granted the 15-cent mileage fee. The motion carried 10-2, with negative votes by Aldermen Paul R. Bowler and Michael Modrusile.

Walter Kurowski Sr. dies

Walter Leo "Kirk" Kurowski Sr., 63, of 59 Cedar Drive, Fairview Heights, the brother of a Granite City resident, died at 9:30 a.m. Monday at Desano Hospital, St. Louis.

He had suffered a stroke two weeks previously and had been hospitalized since that time.

Mr. Kurowski was born in East St. Louis and had lived in that community until moving to Fairview Heights eight years ago.

He was a member of Steamfitters Local 438 and Our Lady of Assumption Roman Catholic Church in Fairview Heights.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mary (Kolas) Kurowski; one son, Walter Kurowski; one son, Walter Kurowski, Jr., of Washington Park; and three brothers, Joseph Kurowski of Granite City, Stanley Kurowski of Collinsville and Ted Kurowski of Fremont, Neb.

Mr. Kurowski had many friends in this area.

Services were held Wednesday, with a local funeral home in charge of arrangements. Details are given in the obituary column.

GARAGE BURGLARY

Margaret Blackshear, 1650 Fourth St., Madison, reported a red 22-inch lawnmower was stolen from her garage along with several games.

Love Circle is preparing for bazaar

The Love Circle of Niedringhaus United Methodist Women met at the home of Mrs. Charles Kohl. Mrs. Gladys Potillo offered opening prayer, and Mrs. Kohl welcomed Mrs. Donna Kagy as a new member of the circle.

Mrs. Golda Boyle reported on a quilt several of the circle members have completed for the annual fall bazaar. Several bazaar projects were discussed, and the members were reminded of Wednesday night workshops held at the home of Mrs. Bruce Groshong.

Mrs. Dolores Allen, general president of the United Methodist Women, welcomed the members to the activities at the church, and announced the next general meeting will be Sept. 13.

Mrs. Sharon Shaffer had charge of the Fellowship of the Least Coin. The remainder of the morning was spent in a workshop.

Mrs. Kohl presented the story of the origin of Christmas, and Mrs. Mary Miller and Mrs. Kohl assisted those present in creating Christmas book-caskets. A special Christmas was made to be taken to Mrs. Irene Kenner, a member who was hospitalized.

The Circle will meet at the Burns Cafeteria on Thursday morning, Aug. 2.

In addition to the above, also present were Dorothy Allen, Ida Cariss, Corinne Hinson, Marie Klein, Olivia Lehman, Geneva Miller and Esther Traylor.

POOL PARTY

A "spatler party" will be held from 7 p.m. until 10 p.m. Friday at the Wilson Park pool, featuring music by "Jade." On Saturday everyone with a park identification card will be allowed in the pool for 25 cents. More information on the activities may be obtained by calling the pool office, 876-7466.

Craft show at the county fair

A two-day arts and crafts festival will be featured at the 1979 Madison County Fair in Highland Thursday, July 26, and Friday, July 27.

Exhibits will be on display each day in the Lindendale Park ballroom from 2 to 9 p.m. according to festival superintendent Dorothy Wentz.

Thirty different display booths will be featured, including woodcarving, china painting, the craft, quilting, silk flowers, stuffed toys, straw arrangements, loom weaving, string art, crocheting, macrame, jewelry, plants, leatherwork, ceramics and chair caning. The show is open to everyone and no admission is charged.

Craft items can be purchased during the festival. Fairgoers will notice many new exhibits at the county fair July 27-28.

A huge tent will house many of the new exhibitors, while others will fill the exposition building on the fairgrounds. The fair begins Sunday with a 1 p.m. flag-raising ceremony featuring the Colonial Fife and Drum Corps and a 4-H club horse show, also at 1 p.m. in the fairgrounds arena.

A grassed pig contest, sponsored by Highland Area Young Farmers, will be held at 8 p.m., followed by old-fashioned games for the family, including a tug-of-war, sack races, watermelon eating and apple peeling.

An interfaith religious service will be held at 6:30 p.m. in the entertainment pavilion, with the Rev. Norman Surraff as speaker. Starting at 7:30 p.m., the Don Sherrer Banjo Band will give a free concert in the pavilion, to round out the day's activities.

Judging of 4-H projects and projects in the open and junior divisions begins Monday morning.

BUMPS HEAD Steven Dionea, 21, of 2657 Cleveland Blvd., was treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center at 9:40 a.m. Tuesday after being involved in an auto accident. He said he bumped his head on the windshield and suffered an abrasion to his right upper arm. X-rays were taken and he was released.

More borrowing by GC schools

Additional borrowing of $900,000 for the education fund and $90,000 for the building fund was authorized Tuesday night by the Granite City Board of Education.

Through the end of the fiscal year June 30, the district had obtained tax anticipation warrants of $1,440,000 in the education fund and $200,000 in the building fund. Receipt of new tax collections is expected soon.

Replacement of a GCHS South heating steamline was authorized, and the board approved arrangements under which township shared revenue will enable citizen groups to install baseball and soccer field lights on Fehling Road and more bleachers in the GCHS North gymnasium. The aid totals $50,000 and $20,000, respectively.

Joseph Owens was named music coordinator on a 6-1 vote, with David Parney dissenting.

More callbacks from the faculty layoff list were approved, including Ruth Noeth and Nick Petrillo as physical education teachers and Larry Curry as an elementary teacher.

Dorothy Larner was recalled as a secretary, and Nicholas Harper and Randy Knucha were designated as high school campus monitor.

Vincent DeLeonardis was named a social worker.

Busy schedule for Dixon here

It was a lucrative stay in Granite City this week for Illinois Secretary of State Alan J. Dixon of Belleville, at present the favorite to replace a fellow Democrat, Adlai Stevenson, as U. S. senator. Stevenson won't seek re-election, and Dixon is campaigning hard for the March 1980 nomination.

With more than $115,000 already raised for his campaign treasury, Dixon added to that with a fund party attended by a large crowd at Charlie's Restaurant Monday night, and then had a chance to speak to nearly 100 voters at Tuesday's weekly Granite City Rotary luncheon at the YMCA.

An article on the Rotary talk appears on Page 47 of today's Press-Record.

President Darryl Slater presided and Program Chairman James Rush introduced the speaker.

In his address aimed at answering questions, the three-decade public official—a veteran of judicial, legislative and executive branch governmental service and leadership—expressed an upbeat viewpoint on Americans' ability and willingness to respond to a national crisis such as the energy shortage.

"There are answers to the problems, and feasible, technology already exists for coal gasification at competitive prices," Dixon said.

He added that as senator he would place much emphasis on this state's vast coal reserves.

Sanitary district to 'get tough' in seeking delinquent sewer fees

A get-tough policy in the collection of sewer use fees that have been delinquent for long periods of time was pledged by trustees of the Metro-East Sanitary District at a meeting in Washington Park Wednesday.

The board has been discussing ways of collecting delinquent fees for the past month as one step in helping the district through its difficult financial problems that have left the district virtually penniless and without funds to meet payrolls.

Board members decided

Wednesday to place advertisements in newspapers warning sewer users who owe back fees to pay up or face the threat of having their sewers disconnected.

Edward Maag, a board attorney, said taking people to court to collect small amounts of unpaid fees have been mostly unsuccessful because many of these persons are on fixed incomes such as social security or other aid and are unable to pay.

Trustees agreed to publish ads giving delinquent sewer users 90 days in which to pay back bills. After that, sewers would be cut off, they said.

Maag, with district attorney John Sprague, will file suits for collection of unpaid fees that total more than $750. Amounts owed the district in some individual cases range from $1,800 to $4,000 it was reported.

Mrs. Millet coordinator of Hospice

Roger Franck, assistant vice-president, announced today that St. Elizabeth Medical Center has entered into a management contract with Hospice of Madison County.

The Medical Center has hired Mrs. Nina Millet as program coordinator.

The board of directors of Hospice will remain as the governing board of the program; the board is made up of people from throughout the Madison County area.

Mr. Millet, a registered nurse, received her nursing degree from Eastern Maine General Hospital in Bangor, Maine. She is also a graduate of St. Louis University with a master degree in social work.

11 hurt in Rt. 111 crash

Eleven persons, six of them in one family, were injured at 9:30 p.m. Wednesday when a pickup truck in which they were riding was forced off the highway and overturned several times on Route 111, seven-tenths of a mile south of State Aid Route 35. Nine of the injured live in Granite City.

All were taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center where seven of the victims were admitted for further treatment. Three others were treated and released, and one declined treatment, authorities said.

State troopers said the accident occurred when a pickup truck driven by Robert Theis, 52, of 2147 Lee Ave., northbound on Route 111, was forced off the road by a passing motorcycle and passenger car.

The truck veered into a field, overturning several times, state police said.

The victims included the driver and five other members of the Theis family, all of the Lee Avenue address.

These included: Robert Theis, 52, left rib and chest injuries and abrasions, admitted; Mark Theis, 16, pain to the left shoulder, head and neck and minor abrasions, admitted; Kimberly Theis, 13, pain to the lower part of her legs, treated and released; Katherine Theis, 13, chest injury, admitted; Judith Theis, 42, neck pains and

GCPD 2nd in regional match

The second annual Granite City National Rifle Association Police Combat Revolver Regional Championship was held during the weekend at the Granite City pistol range at the Granite City Army Installation. Over 100 competitors representing nine states entered the two-day event which is limited to full-time law enforcement officers.

The Granite City Police pistol team fared well by finishing second in the four-man team expert class. The team was represented by Kip Pomeroy (539-29X), Sgt. Don Knight (553-6X), Fred Hoffman (539-11X), and Sgt. Dennis Joyce (535-13X) who combined for a total of 2209-60X.

The match winner in individual competition was Mark Thompson from the Sheriff's Department at Pendleton, Ind., who fired 1490-90X out of a possible 1500. Finishing second was Larry Wenger of the Indianapolis Police Department with 1488-103X. Leland Wessel of the Mississippi State Fish and Game Office placed third with 1483-85X.

The local team had two members in the master class, Pomeroy (1456-70X) and Sgt. Jim Lengyel (1444-68X). Knight competed in the expert class with 1421-46X. In the sharpshooter class, Joyce fired 1379-42X for fifth place and Dave Polivick fired 1371-33X for seventh place. Joyce also placed second in match three and third in match one while Polivick placed third in match four.

Fred Hoffman finished second overall in the marksman class with 1362-26X. In addition, Hoffman placed third in match three. The highlight of the competition was the tying of a national record by not one, but two competitors in match one.

The maximum score in match one is 240-24X and this was attained by both Larry Wenger of Indianapolis and Robert Hagan of the Missouri State Highway Patrol. Through the tie-breaking process Hagan tied a national record yet placed second in this particular match.

The two-man team competition was won by James Tapocsi and William Garne of Porter County, Ind., who shot 1182-49X. The four-man team match was won with a score of 2344-129X fired by Robert Hagan, Richard Rehmeier, Gary Dunlap, and Roy Bergman of the Missouri State Highway Patrol. The distinguished match title was captured by Tapocsi with a 592-36X.

Officiating at the match was Lynn B. Owen, who was appointed by the NRA as the match referee. Chief range officer for the match was Lt. Col. George Teller of the Granite City Police Department and executive officer of the match was Capt. Harry Mitchell.

Officiating at the match was Lynn B. Owen, who was appointed by the NRA as the match referee. Chief range officer for the match was Lt. Col. George Teller of the Granite City Police Department and executive officer of the match was Capt. Harry Mitchell.

OFFICER HOFFMAN, above, takes aim at target position 19. He took second place honors in the marksman class competition overall.

Dividends on an investment don't have to be in the form of cash. Very often they come in the form of peace of mind. Or a happier family. For instance, consider a common problem... a family that has grown faster than their home. Getting the day started can be a real hassle when there is one bathroom... less than needed. You are late for work and in a hurry... your daughter has developed an affection for the mirror in the bathroom; younger children are turning teeth-brushing into an all day project. You forget breakfast and hope the day improves before noon. In this scenario the small investment, of course, is in a new bathroom. The big dividends come in the form of peace of mind, a slightly brighter outlook for the start of each day. Dividends like this are part of the reason for low-cost home improvement loans. So if your day needs brightening and your home needs repair or remodeling, maybe our home-improvement loans will help... you can BANK on it!

Timothy W. Behrens is one of the 72 new students in the Class of 1982 who has begun studies this summer at the Southern Illinois University School of Medicine.

He is the son of Helmer and Joyce Behrens, Route 2, Box 31, Appleton, Minn. A graduate of Granite City High School North, he earned his bachelor's degree in biology at the University of Illinois.

This is the eighth class to enter the SIU School of Medicine since it was established by the state of Illinois in 1969.

After the first year at the parent campus in Carbondale, the students will move to Springfield for their second and third year of study for their medical degrees.

The school's stated purpose is to assist the people of central and southern Illinois in meeting their health care needs. This includes medical student and resident education aimed at increasing the number of physicians available to the area.

Only Illinois residents are admitted, and special emphasis is placed on identifying candidates likely to remain in Illinois to practice.

Girl, 2, hit by BB pellet

Two-year-old Misty Valenzuela, 2837 Pershing Ave., was struck by a BB pellet while riding in a car driven by her father, Keith Valenzuela, in the 2600 block of Edwards Street.

The incident occurred at 10:15 p.m. Monday. The child was treated for an injury to the back of the head at St. Elizabeth Medical Center and released.

Three boys were questioned by police and a pellet gun was confiscated from one. Two of the boys, ages 10 and 11, live in the vicinity of the shooting. The third boy, 13, was from out-of-town.

47 teens improving Lewis-Clark Park

By BRENDA MURPHY

"If I wasn't here I'd be sittin' at home or causin' trouble," said the blond-haired teenager boy, as he sat on a log in the middle of the park.

The youth is one of 47 juvenile offenders, ages 14 to 18, employed this summer by the Manpower Youth Division of Madison County in a program designated as "Operation Turnaround."

Their working goal is to clean up and restore Lewis and Clark Park here.

Three students from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville are involved in this "turnaround" project as they supervise the youths at the park. They've also experienced some turnarounds themselves, while working in an atmosphere far different from that of the university campus.

Mark Somma, 23, a senior government student, is employed as the program's work adviser. Ben Giles, 29, a junior government student, and Mark Schaefer, 22, a junior engineering student, are employed as counselors.

The objective of the program, according to Somma, is to provide "work orientation and experience" for the juveniles.

"For most of the youth, it's their first job. A lot of them have dropped out of school," he said. "We try to teach them to have discipline to a job — to show up every day."

The youths are exposed to not only a work experience, but also participate in workshops on such subjects as job-hunting or health care. And they work with value exercises once a week. "We try to give them information they're not liable to get elsewhere," Somma said.

Working with juvenile offenders is not a new experience for the student. He worked as a counselor in the program the preceding two summers. He said he was originally hired for the program because he has a black belt in karate, although he doesn't like to use force to make a point.

"These kids learn by example," he explained. "I can't say 'Stop using your hands use your head,' and then use force."

Instead, Somma is in charge of the overall program, Giles and Schaefer are each charged with one of the seven teams of youths. Giles came to the program because he was looking for summer work. "It appealed to me in having to supervise so-called delinquents," he said. "I had worked at some Madison County Detention Home before.

Giles said his goal in working with juveniles is to "try to change minds and attitudes."

Attitudes are the biggest problem Schaefer has to deal with in supervising his team. He said the boys have motivation problems.

This is the first job for half of them, he said. "For a lot of them, this is their only job."

The offenses committed by the youths working at the park range all the way from running away from home, to breaking and entering, armed robbery, arson, and aggravated assault and battery.

For many of the juveniles, this summer's work has been assigned as part of their probation and is the only thing standing between them and a trip to the detention home, Somma said.

"Slightly less than half would be in jail if they weren't working (in the program)," he said.

Even so, some of the boys get into trouble again while they're employed in the program, although Somma said this "very rarely" happens when it does, they lose their jobs and usually end up in the detention home.

"I hate to see them go to jail. It makes them more cynical," Somma said.

"It makes me feel disappointed," Giles said. "There's not much I can do. I like to help people, so I do what I can."

Somma feels that each boy is responsible for his own actions, whether constructive or not. "I feel bad, but I don't believe it's all somebody else's fault. I look at it as an individual thing. They can't blame society for getting in trouble."

Working in the program has enlightened the students to the workings of the penal system, something none of them would have come in contact with, and given them some other views on life.

"I've learned how different people view life," Giles said, something he feels will help him in his future political career.

"It's helped me learn about myself. I thought these guys wouldn't be able to get to me," Schaefer said, as he recalled how bad he felt when one of his team members was pulled from the program. Schaefer isn't sure what benefits the youths are getting from the program. "It's hard to see any real, positive benefits besides having a job," he said. "But I like to think there are some."

DISMISS CHARGE

A burglary charge against Steven L. Jobe, 21, of 4084 Park Lane, has been dismissed in Madison County Circuit Court by Circuit Judge Horace Calvo on a motion by the state's attorney's office. The charge stemmed from a Jan. 23 incident, according to court officials.

Cannot end major source of state revenue—governor

Governor James R. Thompson, in vetoing legislation that would exempt food and drugs from the Illinois sales tax, called HB 2564 a "crude, political deception."

Thompson said the measure would cost a billion dollars in revenues over the next four years, necessitating either an increase in state taxes or substantial cuts in state programs.

It would also seriously undermine "progress which has been made during the past three years in returning the state to a sound fiscal position," he contended.

In his veto message to members of the General Assembly, the governor said:

"I fully appreciate the burden of the sales tax on low or middle income families."

"But a majority of those who claim to want to lower this burden have also, in this same session of the General Assembly, voted for funds for programs, such as elementary and secondary education, far beyond the amount originally requested in my budget."

"You cannot have it both ways. You cannot remove a major revenue source, fail to replace it with any other revenue sources, and then continue to spend as though the money was still there."

"Every person responsible for a household budget in this state understands that it is elementary fact of life. It is high time some members of this Assembly understood it," the governor said.

Thompson said there were "other means to tax relief which legislators could have approved and which the state could have afforded. Included in the bill are benefits for senior citizens and disabled persons through the circuit breaker tax relief program, which included the Additional Grant program intended to reduce the regressive impact of the sales tax on senior and disabled citizens."

"In addition, middle income households could have been protected by increasing the standard exemption from $1,000 to $1,200."

"The state cannot afford a loss of revenues of this magnitude at a time when the national economy is entering a downturn. This undoubtedly will force more people onto the unemployment and welfare roles."

"The state is also facing the certainty of major cuts in federal aid, which makes up nearly one quarter of all state spending."

"The legislation also jeopardizes the opportunity for future reform of tax policies through shifts in the burden of taxation."

"This bill simply relieves a tax burden without replacing it, thereby foreclosing the opportunity for consideration of other measures of tax reform."

"This unilateral slash of sales tax revenues now would, as a practical matter, make such a program impossible," the governor concluded.

Will review veteran claims for radiation exposure

The Veterans Administration has initiated a full review of 229 claims which it has denied from veterans who sought compensation for disabilities, including cancer, which they related to their participation in atmospheric testing of nuclear weapons.

Thousands of servicemen were exposed to varying levels of radiation from nuclear tests conducted between 1945 and 1963.

VA General Counsel Guy H. McMichael III told the Senate Veterans Affairs Committee the agency will ask each of the military services involved in the atomic tests to complete, within the next 30 days, estimates of the highest likely radiation exposure for each of the 229 veterans.

He told the committee that "there are serious difficulties inherent in the adjudication of claims involving long time intervals between radiation exposure and the appearance of cancer."

The first, he said, is that "radiation-induced cancers have no unique pathological characteristics to distinguish them from cancers due to 'natural' causes. This makes it impossible to determine—without certainty—whether such a disease would have occurred regardless of radiation exposure."

McMichael said a government task force recently reported "a natural incidence of fatal cancer of 1,600 in a population of 10,000." One additional death could be expected for each additional "rem" of exposure to which the entire group was subject.

He told the committee that "the realm of probabilities with which we are dealing is actually quite small when it is realized that the Defense Department estimates that approximately 97 percent of the (atomic test) participants received less than one point of external radiation and about 97 percent less than three rems."

But he said, in view of the increasing number of radiation exposure claims filed with VA in the past year, the agency will issue formal guidelines to codify existing practices and improve the handling of such claims.

Included is VA acceptance of a veteran's statement that he was present at an atomic test, unless military records conclusively prove such was not the case.

"As is also currently done, when an individual dosimetry reading for a claimant is not available, but reconstruction of data indicates his unit was exposed to a range of exposure levels, it will be presumed that the exposure was at the upper limit of the range," he said.

"In addition, instructions will be issued which describe generally accepted medical principles concerning causal relationships between exposure to ionizing radiation and the development of various diseases, with carefully worded caveats reflecting the many uncertainties remaining in this area."

"Emphasis will again be placed on the agency policy to resolve in a claimant's favor any reasonable doubt as to service origin of a disease," McMichael said.

Late GC editor hailed in '75 tribute as 'father of film row'

THE LEGEND OF LOVABLE LEW LINDLEY

Editor's Note: Los Angeles Filmmaker has a living legend. He is Lew Lindley, dubbed by veterans and contemporaries alike as the "Father of Filmmaking." Lindley, 62, 46 years, has published an industry directory which, in daily use, is one of the most useful "tools of the trade" the Southern California exchange has known for almost five decades.

By HELEN LAUGHLIN
Special to BOXOFFICE

HOLLYWOOD—Los Angeles' "Filmmaker Father" has "sired" many of Hollywood's and the motion picture industry's biggest names and topmost leaders. He is the active, genial Lew Lindley, 85 years young, who continues a 46-year tradition as the unofficial "historian" of West Coast motion picture business.

Lindley also has a lifelong reputation for philanthropy, charity and humanitarianism. No industry-related activity ever was denied Lew's charitable touch, whether free handbills, posters, tickets or prizes. Lindley didn't care whether the cause was Catholic, Jewish, Protestant or what, as long as it benefited somebody.

Via Lindley's West Coast Theatre Guide & Telephone Directory and other strictly news-type publications, filled with "only edition" photographs, memorabilia and yearlong continuity of film and theatre people and their accomplishments, the title "Father of Filmmaking" is apt.

Slim Beginning

The Lindley legend started in 1929, when Lew bought the Acorn Press from its former owner (a church deacon). But Lew's pre-Acorn Press days were as colorful as his long career as a show business entrepreneur. July 23, 1889, Lew got his first look at the world near Greenville, Ill., in his uncle's barn, the family's temporary residence. Things were hectic those first years. The Lindleys moved around a lot and Lew left school in the fourth grade (his last formal schooling) to take a job in a steel mill near Granite City at ten cents an hour.

Enthralled by his inauspicious beginning, Lew read everything he could get his hands on. When he could afford it, he invested in a second-hand typewriter from Sears-Roebuck and unofficially was launched on his long career of newspapering, printing, publicizing and you name it! When asked what college he attended, he simply gave his inquisitor the initials of the steel mill and rarely was called on to identify his "alma mater."

Eventually, with the financial assistance of two friends, he became publisher and editor of the Granite City, Ill., Press-Record, Rotary Club president and editor of the group's magazine. Hearst later picked up the option on the Press-Record and Lew moved to the West.

Lew arrived in California in 1927 with a modest nest egg which he hoped to in-

Lew Lindley, right, Los Angeles' "Father of Filmmaking," shows some favorite photos from his collection. On wall at upper left: Drive-in theatre pioneers, the late Chester Black and Seth Perkins. vest in a small newspaper but the Copley interests already had a corner on all such publications and refused to part with even one. Nevertheless, he listened well to the good advice of Col. Ira Copley, an ex-Illinois newspaperman whom he had met when Lew was president of the Southern Illinois Editorial Ass'n, who predicted a fabulous future for the Southland. So in 1929, for Lew, Los Angeles and the Acorn Press it was!

Acorn's new owner, still with the news-bond's compulsive, unquenchable urge to write, soon came out with his own sheet—a BULL-E-TIN (so dubbed by Lew) called Acorn Kernels. The first issue carried a story introducing to Filmmaking Lew and his knowledge of the art of ink-slinging and inviting and encouraging the trade's friendship as well as its printing problems.

In 1930 he was able to do a real service for his new industry friends. The telephone company had changed Filmmaking's prefix from Beacon to Republic, as well as many numbers, and the June edition of Acorn Kernels carried the new listings for all concerns on the Row. This was born the "LA Film Exchange Theatre Guide & Telephone Directory," which became a publication in its own right, issued annually and almost as valuable as the telephone itself. Acorn Kernels remained a now-and-then BULL-E-TIN until June 1937, then gave way to a 12-page called Filmmaking News, introduced in the first issue as "just a small-town gossip sheet, not of the scandal, dig-up-the-dirt variety, but friendly news of Filmmaking and all theatres in the Los Angeles exchange."

In 1938 format and name were changed and the Pacific Coast Shoman made its bow in all theatres in six exchange centers—Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, Salt Lake City and Denver—and copies were shipped weekly to each area. The Shoman carried a series of feature profiles and cover photos of "Showmen Leaders of the Pacific Coast" on such personages as Thornton Sargent, then district manager for Los Angeles first run for Fox West Coast; the late Victor McCoy Walker, and the late Cullen Egan, a district manager and later buyer for FWC. Also included, besides general trade news, was "Features and Analyses" of new films, as well as personals furnished by one "reporter" from each film exchange center.

Filmmaking a Springboard

Lew speaks with pride of one Lindley alumnus and former Shoman reporter, the late Duke Dunbar, a law student working his way through college, on Denver's Filmmaking, who went on to become Colorado's attorney general for 30 years through six administrations.

Another law student of the '30s was Albert Bisen who, in helping his dad operate a small movie theatre in El Segundo, used to come by Acorn to pick up theatre programs. After law school, and several years of practice, he entered politics and eventually was elected mayor of Torrance, Calif., which office he held over 15 years.

Another young man, Lew recalls, who helped pay his school expenses working as an usher in a ten-cent admission theatre on South Vermont, was Harvey Westfall, who joined the Coca-Cola Co. in Los Angeles as a sales representative in 1937. In 1963, Westfall was transferred to Atlanta, where he became national sales manager for theatres and concessions and in 1965 was named "Coca-Cola's Man on the Go." Westfall, who retired in '74, and his wife Jane now reside in Escondido, Calif., where they raise avocados and, so Lew is told, "go to movies" in their spare time.

War Poses Problems

With the advent of World War II, the Pacific Coast Shoman quickly expired when four of Acorn's key men—Lew's son, along with Nat Tanchuck (Shoman's associate editor) and two print shop employees—left for the service.

The war found Acorn "short of help, short on essential supplies and covered up with new theatre business. In addition to regular theatre printing, Acorn printed weekly programs for over half-a-hundred War Department soldier entertainment theatres in the Southland. Despite the shortage the directory continued as best it could and also doubled as a news vehicle.

Some later directory editions featured (in addition to "Lew's Chit-Chat"), the success story of the late James Nicholson, American International Pictures' president; an article, "If My Memory Serves Me," by John Hunsicker, on the formation of West Coast Theatres, and the subsequent move of Filmmaking from Olive Street to Washington and Vermont under the leadership of Sol Lesser, the late Mike and Abe Gore and Adolph Ramish in 1925—and a "Tribute to Four Drive-In Theatre Pioneers"—the late Messrs. Chester Black, Seth Perkins, Guy Douthwaite and Jack Tingle.

"Special" editions were a Lindley forte. He occasionally has produced such one-timers as "A Collection of Somewhat Sassy Humor—Not Intended for the Blue Nosed Gentry" and "ONCE UPON A TIME—In Honor of Many Fine Friends Taken Back in the Hey-Day Period of the Filmmaking 'Once Upon a Time.'" The latter, a nostalgic treasure trove of 250 candid shots of people on the Row taken by Lew over the years, was presented as a "picture supplement" to the 1972-73 directory.

Recalls Industry 'Greats'

Among Lew's favorite "star" photos is one inscribed "To Lew Lindley—With best wishes" and signed Ronald Reagan, then governor of California. Lew received this from "Ronnie" after sending him a very early Reagan photo from the Lindley collection with the comment: "Listen, you old sucker from Illinois, your picture from MGM has been in my stable for 25 years... Let's see what you look like now!" Another prized photo from the late Judy Garland, then 16, which reads "For Lew." From the little girl who used to sit on your lap—Sincerely, Judy Garland." Judy's dad and uncle, the late Frank and Bob Gumm, were Filmmaking regulars and rank, who owned several theatres, frequently brought Judy with him on his visits to Acorn. "She'd climb on my knee and tweak my ear and pull my hair," Lew remembers fondly. The photo from Judy was forthcoming when Lew ran her picture on Shoman's front cover with some appropriate ballyhoo on her current movie inside. Lew would like to present this to Liza Minnelli, along with other memorabilia of her famous mother.

Another young lady slated for stardom, who frequented Filmmaking those early days, was Shirley Temple Black.

Filmmaking Splits Up

In the late '50s for Filmmaking it was move or be shovled aside by bulldozers to make way for the Santa Monica Freeway. Acorn moved to its present address at 909 South Vermont, other firms moved to the La-Cienega area and the rest just scattered. Only the Universal exchange remains in the old location. Filmmaking's legitimate theatre and black workshops now occupy the ground floor of what once was Fox West Coast's home office headquarters and the Boulevard Theatre. The building's penthouse, long a lavish stronghold for the late Charles P. Skouras, is now empty. Gone is the intimacy of the old Filmmaking, observes Newton P. "Red" Jacobs, whose own success story reads like a Horatio Alger novel. Jacobs got his start in the film business some 59 years ago when he was "just a kid" and via many years with RKO, Jacobs is now chairman of the board of his own highly successful distributing firm, Crown International.

Lew, who rightfully gained a reputation for being "always a little on the crazy side," was a great contributor and supporter of both Variety Club Tent 25, Southern California chapter of the internationally rooted club noted for its spectacular contributions to worthy children's causes, and the now defunct Low Angeles Film Row Club, smaller in scope but as strong in its purpose, to help those in need.

One man, who well remembers Lew for his humanitarianism, is Ezra Stern, who helped found Variety Club Tent 25 along with Charlie Skouras, Dave Bershon and others. Stern was instrumental in planning the occasion in 1972 honoring Lew, when he was awarded an honorary lifetime membership in Variety as well as a handsome plaque which reads: "Variety Club of Southern California Tent 25 Salutes Lew Lindley—Film Row Historian—For Dedicated Service to the Motion Picture Industry—Beverly Hilton Hotel, Nov. 1, 1972."

Stern, prominent attorney (fondly referred to in the film trade as the "barstrier"), got his start in the motion picture industry working his way through law school at night while focusing his daytime efforts on the poster and lobby business on Filmmaking. Naturally, after graduation from law school, he gravitated to the field and friends he knew best.

Stern, in addition to his "barstrier," also owned the theatres owned by the late Al O'Keefe.

Founder of Filmmaking Club

The new Santa Monica Freeway, in uprooting Filmmaking's longtime occupants, also hastened the demise of the Film Row Club, of which Lew is credited with being a founder. The club, during its life span, like Variety, was engaged in many charitable activities outside of the trade—and for Filmmaking's own, there was even a blood bank and personal loans in emergencies. In fact, anything that would help someone in need.

Harvey Lithgow, who entered the movie business in 1913 as a driver for Film Transports and is now office manager for Warner Bros. Distributing Co., was one of the Film Row Club's most active and avid supporters, and remembers Lew always being ready with free tickets and throwaways, posters, whatever printing was needed, whether it was the club's annual picnic, New Year's dance or strictly philanthropic activity.

Like Harvey, popular Ida Schreiber, NATO of Southern California's executive secretary, keeps handy a current directory and a couple of old ones for reference. Ida, herself a veteran of over 40 years in the picture business, remembers Lew as a vigorous man, a terrific fighter and a fine American as well as a person who typifies the generosity for which film industry people are particularly noted, as well as their propensity to take care of their own. "They're all that way," she says. "I know I'd split a bar with anybody who needed it."

Lew never forgot Acorn's basic function is commercial printing and, tucked within the directory's pages are such Lindleys as "The Rest of 1971—Will Bring You More, More and Show Biz Will Be More Fun—If You Will Get Lew & the Acorn Crew—To Pull in More Paying Patrons For You!" Or, "This IS NO BULL—CALL 885-5151." (Acorn's number) AND LEARN WHAT THE REMEDY IS FOR 'EMPEITSAUSE'."

Booster of Showmanship

Constantly urging his readers to be top showmen, in a full-page Acorn ad showing a crowing rooster under the headline "Who Eats Duck Eggs?", he wisely counseled his Filmmaking audience: "Nearly everybody eats chicken eggs but how many folks have ever eaten a duck or goose egg? ... There's a big reason behind the answer to this question... Chickens always send out a message about their eggs... 'the roosters crow'... the hen cackles and they let folks know about their product; but a duck or goose makes never a quack about their eggs... so who eats them? Be as smart as a chicken and do a little cackling about your shows... and your boxoffice will not lay an egg ever—Lew."

Lew is deeply devoted to his charming wife Martha, whom he met when, fresh from Ohio, she was holding down her first job on Filmmaking. In 1949, they were married and it wasn't long before Lew's pretty bride became, and remains today, a Lindley mainstay and a jill-of-all-trades on the Acorn staff.

It's been a long and not-so-easy life for Lew. But talk to him and you know he wouldn't have had things any other way. A bad back, broken in a horseback riding accident in 1934, still plagues him, but in no way has it dampened the indomitable Lindley spirit which today certainly belies his nearly 86 years.

"Of coppery coin of the realm, I have little," he ponders, "but my chest of treasured friendships, garnered during the past 46 years, is a treasure beyond price—also one that no thief can steal."

Lindley's "alumni association" is a long list of the past and present hierarchy of the motion picture business. Across the span of almost half a century, Lew's Filmmaking publications have chronicled names, news, business addresses and telephone numbers of the greats and near-greats who have helped to make Los Angeles and Hollywood "the movie capital of the world."

Has Won Industry Respect

Lew Lindley, to most Filmmakers, is more than a legend and a tradition. He is and has been the only reliable and continuing source of vital, essential information on who's who and what's what and where in the motion picture industry, so far as Southern California is concerned.

Quietly, almost secretly, NATO of California is discussing a way and a means to honor and thank "Father of Filmmaking" Lew Lindley properly for his services and contributions to the industry.

Robert W. Selig, president of NATO of California, has revealed that discussions are under way to "pay our official respects appropriately to this man who has done so much for the film row." Selig, at this time, would not divulge other details of the coming commemorative event.

Madison Junior Service projects

Plans to purchase paint to refurbish fire hydrants in Madison and to participate in a late summer festival were topics discussed last week at a special meeting of the Madison Junior Service Club.

Carol Robertson, president, appointed Diane Hudzik and Donna Wedlake as co-chairmen of a club booth at the Madison Ethnic Festival, scheduled later this summer. Members agreed to serve homemade pastries, hot dogs and coffee at the community-wide event. The group also voted to sponsor a pancake and sausage breakfast, with the proceeds to be donated to Hospice, the volunteer home care program for terminally ill patients.

Asked to serve as co-chairmen of the breakfast were Caroline Champion, JoAnn Gushoff and Mrs. Woodard.

A donation was authorized to the Madison girls and boys softball team, and funds were approved to purchase paint for the city fire hydrants' project.

Weekly winners in park program

The Granite City Park District recreation program, with centers at Lincoln Place Community Center, and Logan, Wilson, Webster, Niedringhaus and Nameoki schools, is offering local children the opportunity to participate in several activities throughout the summer.

Each week, there are different contests for the children. Last week's competition was a four-square tournament.

Categories for competition are: girls and boys; midlets, girls and boys; and juniors, girls and boys.

Award winners from Logan School were: first place, Kim Ingram, Chris Bartling, Teri Mefford, Charlie Collins and Mike Pinnon; second place, Angela Collins, Mark Miller and Darren Tinsley; third place, Daniel Johnson and David Kuhn.

From Niedringhaus School, awards went to: first place, Carmen Joyce, Kirk Mills, Lori Mills and Phil Callas; second place, Shameem Ahmed, Ricky Pyle and Don DeConia; and third place, Jerry Lakin.

Wilson School four-square winners were: first place, LaNae Sager, Bobby Lipchik, Beth Earney, Darren Hudson and Serena Futrell; second place, Jennifer Linehan, Ricky Chammess, Heather Tolbert, Patrick Breeze and Michelle Stockton; and third place, Tabby Chammess, Mike Frazier, Stacey Smith, Johnny Munoz and Darla Rice.

Award winners from Nameoki School were: first place, April Druhe, Danny Kaltmeyer, Jane Harper, Jeff Besserman and Darren Bernaiz; second place, Doug Deltour, Shari Stephens, Jim Boswell and Marty Bobb; and third place, Maria Bernaiz.

From Lincoln Place, awards went to: first place, Theresa Meyers, Allen Mollet, Marcee Williams, Diane Rose and Hymey Ybarra; second place, Brian Vaughn, Laura Pruett, Tammy Meyers and Jeff Vaughn.

Award winners from Webster School were: first place, Becky Lapardus, Joey Kostoff, Dawn Kostoff, Calvin Lewis, Sondra English and Frankie Soellner; second place, Arlie Bennett, Erin Vaughn, Tracy Koenig and Eric Decker; and third place, Ernie Walker, Melinda Lewis and Russell English.

Representatives in the four square tournament to be held at the citywide tournament today are Chris Bartling, Phil Callas, Serena Futrell, Darren Bernaiz, Hymey Ybarra and Sondra English.

Continuing as pastor

Eugene Hooker, pastor of the Church of God of Prophecy, has just returned from the church's annual state convention, held at the Peoria Hilton in Peoria. At the convention, the Rev. Hooker was reappointed to the Madison church, where he has been for the next, coming here from Pekin.

Others attending the convention from the congregation were Mrs. Hooker and daughters, Tina and Theresa, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan B. Cowin and son, Randy, Mr. and Mrs. Jean Lynn Cowin, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jackson and daughter, Rene, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Wall and granddaughters, Karen and Ruth, Carla Foote, Fay Barnett, Evelyn Trebing, Maxine DeBruce and Peggy Pier.

Mrs. Chloe Furber of Madison, who attended, is serving as interim pastor at East Alton.

Junior Miss meeting tonight

A meeting will be held tonight at 7 p.m. at the United Methodist Church for those girls interested in entering the Granite City Junior Miss program.

Any girl who resides in Granite City and will be a senior in high school this year is invited to attend, according to Mrs. Betty Tester, pageant chairman.

Anyone who has any questions or would like to assist in the pageant may call Mrs. Tester at 797-0475. The local winner will participate in the state Junior Miss competition in Bollingbrook, Ill. The state winner will then represent Illinois in America's Junior Miss national finals at Mobile, Ala., next spring.

HURT ON CYCLE
Ricky Wofford, 19, of 3325 Terrace Lane, was treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center early this week after being hurt in a motorcycle accident. He suffered abrasions to his right shoulder, arm and elbow and to his back and was admitted.

9% rise in state spending per pupil

Governor James R. Thompson has approved a record $2 billion for elementary and secondary Illinois schools, representing a 9.1 percent rise in per-pupil state spending for education in the school year beginning this fall.

Accompanying the $2,038,163,500 approved by the governor for kindergarten through high schools is a revised school aid formula.

It makes "distribution of funds more equitable, provides a basis for property tax relief, and ends the confusing practice of the state providing a school district with dollars in one year, and then taking some of them back the next," the governor commented.

"The changes in the formula by the General Assembly will provide a tremendous benefit to Illinois schools," Thompson said.

"School districts can plan for specific dollars now with the certainty they won't be taken back the following year. In addition, districts will be allowed to lower taxes without losing school aid."

"Also, this is the first time the state has exceeded the $2 billion funding level for elementary and secondary education. We are providing $119 million more in fiscal year 1980 than we did in fiscal 1979. That is an overall dollar increase of 6.2 percent, which includes a 9.1 percent raise for each pupil."

In a related action, Thompson vetoed House Bill 2564, which would have lifted the sales tax from food and drugs, but which provided no replacement in revenues lost by elimination of the tax.

The Governor branded the latter measure a "political deception because it would have relaxed taxes without a replacement means, thereby placing meaningful tax reform in the future in jeopardy."

"The loss in revenue would have meant that fewer dollars would have been available for education in fiscal 1980," the governor said.

Legislation newly acted upon by the governor follows:

—House Bill 2201, which provides $1.4 billion for general state school aid, including summer schools. He affixed a reduction veto of $11 million to the measure "consistent with the dollars available for elementary and secondary education this year."

The governor approved $38 million more for elementary and secondary education than first proposed in his FY 1980 budget.

—House Bill 2649, providing $887.1 million for operations of the Illinois Office of Education. A reduction veto of $11 million in categorical grant programs was placed on the bill to bring the total in line with "my best judgment regarding the fiscal condition of the state."

Increases in grant programs include 10.7 percent more for special education, 44 percent for gifted education and 7.8 percent for vocational education.

—House Bill 513, revising the state formula.

Key revisions are: Elimination of end-of-year adjustments to smooth the flow of dollars to schools; provision of "full access" to state aid for all districts, thus eliminating a requirement that each district tax at its maximum rate to earn full state support or be penalized; an increase in the maximum per-pupil support level from $1,310 to $1,363; a boost in the Title I weighting factor from .45 to .50 to help districts with higher proportions of poor children; and added support for districts with high underlying assessed valuations.

—Senate Bill 718, which renews the restriction on summer school reimbursements to pupils who are profoundly and severely handicapped. A new provision expands the program to include children in private facilities, orphanages and foster homes.

Dobbs-Taylor engagement

Miss Sharon J. Taylor, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Taylor of Granite City, and William M. Dobbs, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William K. Dobbs of Belleville, are planning an Aug. 11 wedding.

Miss Taylor is a 1976 graduate of Venice High School and is employed at Cass Bank and Trust Co. in St. Louis.

Her fiancé is a 1976 graduate of Althoff Catholic High School. He is employed by Consolidated Aluminum in Madison.

TO MARRY. The engagement of Miss Sharon J. Taylor and William M. Dobbs is being announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Taylor of Granite City. An Aug. 11 wedding is being planned.

Niepert promoted, gets state police command

Illinois State Police Lieutenant Raymond C. Niepert, son of William and the late Julia Niepert of Granite City, was promoted to the rank of captain at ceremonies held at the Department of Law Enforcement Academy in Springfield.

Niepert joined the State Police in 1957 and was assigned patrol duties in the Maryville District. In 1970 he went to the Department of Law Enforcement Academy in Springfield and in 1974 was appointed as aide to the superintendent of the Division of State Police.

Niepert received his Bachelor of Science degree from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. He also is a graduate of Northwestern University Traffic Institute.

Capt. Niepert will assume command of the DuQuoin State Police District. He and his wife, LaVerne, and two children will reside in the DuQuoin area.

Cherry Towne

... a very special bedroom

Cherry Towne is a faithful reflection of the very finest Colonial styling... a painstakingly accurate and authentic masterpiece that has been crafted to perfection.

It is finished in elegant, burnished maple... a deep, hand rubbed finish that brings forth all of nature's beauty from its solid Alder construction. No, there are no veneers or false wood products in Cherry Towne, just the finest solid Alder hardwoods. Alder is a member of the Birch Family!

Even the drawer bottoms, dust proofing and backs are made from genuine wood. But that's just one of so many inherent qualities you'll find—like solid antique brass hardware and heavy plate glass mirrors.

Mobel's Cherry Towne... an elegant classic for today, designed for beautiful tomorrows. Choose from a variety of sizes of dressers, mirrors, chests, beds and night stands, to fit any room.

ANGRY BECAUSE YOU THINK PRICES ONLY GO UP? CHEER UP! THE PRICE OF AETNA CAR INSURANCE IS GOING DOWN

It's true! Now more people are paying less for car insurance because Aetna Life & Casualty is reducing costs in several ways...

- A 5% discount off the cost of your basic coverage every time you renew your policy. It's Aetna's way of saying "thank you" for your business.
- A 15% Low Mileage Discount for most cars driven 7,500 miles or less each year (12,000 miles if used for business).
- Plus many more discounts for which you may be eligible. Such as multi-car discount, car pool discount, good student discount, and others.

And Aetna gives you an easy way to pay your lower premium! Now you can pay for insurance the way you pay for other things you buy—in easy monthly installments.

Call us today for all the good news...and cheer up!

Living Faith to appear at Central Methodist

The Living Faith Share Team from Central College, McPherson, Kan., will appear at the Central Free Methodist Church, 4150 South St. at Lake Street in Pontoon Beach, presenting the message of Christ through vocal music, drama, and personal witness on Sunday from 10 to 11:30 a.m., a church spokesman announced.

Group members include Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Shorb, McPherson; Steve Rue, Wichita, Kan.; Brian Houston, Ellsworth, Kan.; Greg Matthews, Seattle, Wash.; Lloyd Tremaine, Seattle; Phil Atkinson, Minneapolis, Kan.; Mary Beth Potts, Sturgis, S.D.; Susan Potts, McPherson; and Kristi Wilson, Appleton, N.Y.

The Living Faith is on its seventh United States tour. The group is an eight-member vocal ensemble with versatility and enthusiasm, and a Bible story for the kids.

The public is invited to attend. A free will offering will be taken.

To lead service at Trinity

The executive director of the Leslie Bates Davis Neighborhood House in East St. Louis, the Rev. Wilson, will lead the morning worship service and preach at Trinity United Methodist Church, E. 25th and Henry streets Sunday at 10:40 a.m.

A native of western Pennsylvania, the Rev. Wilson is an ordained minister of the United Methodist Church. He served as a three-year missionary to Pendang, Malaysia, as a teacher and youth worker. He also served as pastor for over nine years in Pennsylvania. From 1967 to 1970 he was area co-ordinator for Office of Economic Opportunity. The Rev. Wilson was appointed executive director for the Neighborhood House in 1976. He and his wife are parents of three daughters. He is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, a graduate of Drew University Theological School and attended the University of Illinois Graduate School.

Leslie B. Davis Neighborhood House serves the church and community in an urban ministry. It takes seriously the command of the prophet Jeremiah to seek the city's welfare, a spokesman said. The Neighborhood House is a United Way agency under the direction of the Board of Global Ministries of the United Methodist Church. It carries out a ministry with the poor, the oppressed, weak, powerless, who live in East St. Louis, the spokesman noted. Day care and pre-school training has a long waiting list. Homemaking service employs 12 seniors to help those who can not help themselves. Programs for youth and adults and direct services include: emergency food, transportation, counseling and other needs. Educational workshops on child care health, services for the elderly and other topics are part of the program. Many groups meet at Neighborhood House: elderly groups, clubs for boys and girls, Boy Scouts, groups to plan parties, sports groups and others. Their basketball teams have taken first place in city tournaments.

Other groups organized through Neighborhood House include groups on housing problems, police protection, education, etc. Volunteers are important part of Neighborhood House. The public is invited to hear the Rev. Wilson.

Clyde Chiles at Third Baptist

Clyde Chiles, television personality and evangelist, will appear at Third Baptist Church, 26th Street and Grand Avenue July 22-25.

The meetings will begin at 7:40 a.m. and 8:30 p.m. on Sunday and at 7:30 the remaining nights. The church nursery will be open for each service.

The Rev. Chiles appeared on "The Turning Point," on television. Rev. Chiles preaches the bible with a rare blend of humor and everyday experiences, according to a spokesman. Bill Coon will conduct the music during this series of meetings. He has conducted numerous revivals, crusades and concerts over the past 15 years. He has been a full time music evangelist since 1974. The public is invited to attend this special series of meetings. The Rev. Roy Johnson, pastor said.

DATA PROCESSING
The Washington University Center for the Study of Data Processing will conduct a career workshop at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 24, on campus. The workshop will explore career options for data processing professionals, present and future financial rewards, professional growth opportunities and a career path for entry into the field. There is no charge for the workshop, but reservations are required, by calling (314) 685-5330.

TWO-DAY CAT SHOW

The Greater St. Louis Cat Club is inviting the public to its 20th championship show at the Chase Park Plaza Hotel on Aug. 4 and 5. All breeds of cats will be shown both days, with household pets featured Sunday, Aug. 5. Over 400 cats will be judged over the two-day period. Show hours are from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days, and all admission is $1.25 for adults and $0.50 for children. All entries must be pre-registered at (314) 738-0692.

Marriage licenses are issued

Dennis Lee Barr and Sandra E. Keck, Daniel A. Kleusens and Julia Lee Padgett, David Lopez and Lora Lynn Astorian, all of Granite City.

Jimmie Edward McCullum and Leona Barbara Pollard, Gary Lee North and Linda Christine Bronnauer, all of Granite City.

Nelise K. Provence and Dora L. Culver, Jeffrey K. Smiddy and Shelly M.

Mr., Mrs. Squires name first child

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Squires, 3149 Davis Ave., became the parents of their first child, a daughter, born July 12 at Oliver C. Anderson Hospital in Maryville.

The new arrival has been named Jaime Lynn. She weighed eight pounds, 13 ounces.

The mother will be remembered as the former Miss Brenda Wadlow. Mr. and Mrs. Norma Draper of Granite City are the paternal grandparents. The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ron Wadlow of Granite City and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thompson of Hamel, Ill.

Walters celebrate 40th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald G. Walters, 2568 State St., were honored with an open house party at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Jacqueline Cutler of Glen Carbon.

The party was co-hosted by the honorees' son-in-law, Keith Cutler, and son Gerald R. Walters and his wife, Claudia, both of Godfrey, in observance of the couple's 40th anniversary.

Officers installed by Homemakers

The Granite City Homemakers Extension Unit met at Bill Burns Cafeteria last week for an installation of officers. President Wilma Owca opened the meeting with the pledge to the flag. Rev. Roy Johnson, pastor said.

Madge Ramsey was the installing officer. Those installed were Wilma Owca, president; Anna Beckman, first vice-president; Martha McIlroy, second vice-president; Florence Simpson, secretary; and Freddie McIlroy, treasurer.

As they were installed, each officer was presented with a small bouquet of flowers.

Anna Palsgrove gave the lesson, "Putting Yourself Together." She was assisted by Mrs. McIlroy.

The house lesson, "Our Best Feet Forward," was read by Mrs. Ramsey.

Mrs. McIlroy was named chairman of the nutrition committee of the Extension Council in Edwardsville. Those attending were: Tony Lynch, Kathryn Todoroff, Helen Parks, Louise Johnson, Martha Taylor, Laura Travis, Marcie Johnson, Bernice Johannmeier, Mary Evelyn Yench, Vivian Byers, Mary Zikovich, Lanell Lesseg, Anna Michels, Bessie Grasso, Hazel Cline, Emma Gobbie, Ann Fure and a guest Bernice Nolan.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Walters are natives of Granite City and graduates of local schools. Mrs. Walters is the former Joyce Thompson. Both retired in December 1977.

Walters retired after a career of 35 years as a safety professional. Mrs. Walters was the main desk librarian at the Granite City Public Library.

In earlier years Walters was active in local and national safety organizations, Presbyterian Church activities and several civic committees having to do with civic improvement.

He is a member of local Masonic Bodies, the Scottish Rite Consistory, the Ainaad Temple Shrine and is a marching member of the Shrine Brass Band.

His employment spanned 45 years, including 10 at Granite City Steel, 19 at General Steel Industries, Inc., and eight years at the Granite City Army Depot and eight years for the Second U.S. Coast Guard District headquartered in St. Louis.

He managed the safety programs for each of his last three employers.

Mrs. Walters is well remembered for over 17 years of service at the main desk of the local library, where she assisted students of all ages with school reference work.

The couple have four grandchildren, Linda and Nancy Cutler and Kendra and Scott Robert Walters. The Cutler home was decorated with several floral displays for the event. The highlight of the open house was a display board of approximately 200 photos of members of the honorees' families and friend from childhood on.

In addition to group singing, several members of the Ainaad Temple Brass Band presented an informal jazz concert.

Hilltoppers host to 27

St. John's Hilltoppers met last week for their regular meeting. Dr. Nitz gave the opening prayer, followed by the pledge to the flag.

There were 27 present, including two guests, Alberta Walker and Karmyn Edmond.

Reports were read and accepted. Several old favorite songs were sung by the group.

A card was signed and sent to Talkee Becker, who is in the hospital.

Dr. Nitz gave a talk entitled "Lost and Found." The group accepted an invitation to the YMCA multi-purpose room.

Dr. Nitz gave the closing prayer, followed by "Until We Meet Again." Refreshments were served by those who celebrated birthdays and games were played.

THE FIELDS ARE WHITE UNTIL HARVEST

There are lost souls all around us. They are aware of the fact. Most simply do not know how to pray and ask God to help them. There are so many of them that they are similar to fields of grain that are ripe and ready to harvest.

Christians have a God-given responsibility to tell them of God's love, and of His plan to redeem them.

It is never in order for us to pass judgment anyone. It is in order to tell God's love for them; to speak of the love of Christ Jesus on Calvary's cross; to show true repentance brings a true change, for in Christ all things become new.

Look around you. Do you see the fields that are ready to harvest? Will you help gather in this harvest for God?

Will you? Today.

WORD OF LIFE TABERNACLE

12th and Meridian
Granite City, Ill.
62040
HENRY CRIPPEL, Pastor

MR. AND MRS. LARRY GIBSON.

They were married June 8 at the Church of God of Prophecy in a candlelight ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Belva Alsbury of Granite City and William Alsbury of Pekin, Ill.

Candlelight ceremony for Gibson-Alsbury

Jackie Lee Alsbury and Larry Dale Gibson exchanged wedding vows June 8 during a double ring candlelight ceremony. The Rev. Kenneth Dees, an uncle of the bride, officiated at the ceremony at the Church of God of Prophecy in Madison.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Belva Alsbury of Granite City and William Alsbury of Pekin, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gibson, 2226 Logan St. are the parents of the groom.

The altar was adorned with pink, blue and yellow gladiolus with 16 white candles on each side.

Music was provided by organist Peggy Piers and soloist Barbara Lenich, an aunt of the bride. Musical selections included "You Light Up My Life," "His and Hers," "Oh Perfect Love" and "We've Only Just Begun."

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a white polyester empire gown with a Venice lace bodice and appliques of lace daisies on the long sleeves and the mantilla veil.

The dress was designed with a chapel train. She wore a Juliet headpiece to secure her veil.

Maid of honor was Tammy Alsbury, a sister of the bride. She wore a long gown of pink organza with a V-neckline and a flounced skirt, and wore a matching headpiece with daisy trim in her hair.

Brenda Gibson, a sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. She wore an identical gown of blue organza with a matching headpiece.

They carried matching bouquets of pink, blue and yellow silk daisies.

Jenny Gibson, a niece of the groom, was flower girl. She chose a long blue polyester gown with a blue ribbon trim and a matching headpiece.

Ring bearer was Danny Alsbury, a brother of the bride.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Alsbury, selected a pale blue polyester gown, while the groom's mother, Mrs. Gibson, chose a turquoise polyester gown. Both wore matching corsages of blue and white carnations.

The groom chose his brother, Ronald Gibson, as his best man. Russell Jones was groomsmen, and ushers were Darin Lenich of West Frankfort, Ill., and Greg Dees of Fenton, Mo., cousins of the bride.

The rehearsal dinner was given by the groom's parents in the home of the bride's parents.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the Tri-Mor Bowl 300 Room. The guest book was attended by Gay Dees, a cousin of the bride.

The bride is a 1979 graduate of Granite City High School North, and is a graduate of the Granite City School of Beauty Culture. She will be taking state board exams for her beautician's license.

The groom attended Granite City High School South and is employed as an assistant mechanic at Tri-Mor Bowl.

After a wedding trip to Missouri, the couple will reside in Granite City.

Day lilies, irises and daisies . . . A day spent in Day lilies and irises abound, with a sprinkling of daisies thrown in. It is a lovely place to visit and, if you go, you will not go away empty handed.

Children pass by Mrs. Vinton's garden and all seem to want a flower. She says to them, "If you ask, I will give you one that I want you to have." And she does.

If you pass by the house on the corner of Wayne and Rodger on any summer day, you will most likely see Gloria Vinton out tending her garden. It is a garden on a grand scale, covering most of her front and back yards. Mrs. Vinton has been gardening for most of her life. It kept her busy and happy for all of the years that her husband spent in the service. "I love digging around out among the flowers," she said.

During the 22 army years that the family moved around, Gloria's garden had to be moved or left many times. But with all of the new places involved with army life, Mrs. Vinton kept restarting her garden. It helped to fill the hours when her husband had to be away, and it kept her close to her children.

Mrs. Vinton had roses at one time. Over 100 rosebushes graced her garden. But roses have thorns, and she eventually gave them up for the day lily and the iris.

After her husband retired and the family moved to the house at the corner of Wayne and Rodger, Mrs. Vinton planted yet another garden. She began to sell some of her beautiful day lilies and irises in order to buy fertilizer and topsoil.

The garden is full of prize winning plants. The friendly gardener loves to cross various flowers, coming up with all sorts of new colors and characteristics.

A member of the Southern and Northern Illinois Iris Societies and a member of the board of counselors for the state society, Mrs. Vinton is concerned that gardening not go the way of the horse and buggy. "We are always trying to get new members and to promote home flower gardens," she said.

"The young people seem to be getting away from growing flowers. Too busy."

Gloria Vinton is happy to dig around her flowers and she passes her happiness on. She shares her flowers with not only her neighbors, but with anyone who comes around. It is most unlikely that you will leave her home without a plant.

But that's the way she is. "Don't tell anyone," she laughed, "but I think I give away more than I sell."

Paddler parties this weekend

A "teen party" will be held at Paddlers Swim Club at 2121 Johnson Road tomorrow from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m.

Members may bring guests, and the cost is 75 cents per person.

An adult-evening swim will be held Saturday from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m., and is open to members and their guests at no charge.

Potluck picnic

The Downtown Neighborhood Restoration Society held a potluck picnic Sunday for society members and their families.

Fifty-two members enjoyed the buffet held at the home of Lois and Gene Gunderson, 2333 Delmar Ave.

The summer fun committee: Linda Grooms, Viola Faviar and Rodgers Medford provided games and prizes. Several members joined in a game of softball, while others relaxed in the shade.

Certificate to Mrs. Sullivan

Mrs. Edith Sullivan, 71, of Granite City, has received a General Educational Development equivalency certificate from the Venice Lincoln Technical Center.

She enrolled at the center in 1976 to continue her education. This year's graduating class was the center's largest.

Mrs. Sullivan was a United Pentecostal minister for 26 years. She is married to Marion Sullivan of Granite City.

GC Women of Moose host informative session

Granite City Chapter 247 of the Women of the Moose was the hostess chapter for an executive session held at the Moose Lodge this week. Senior Regent Rosella Mead welcomed the visiting chapters and introduced the session leader, Marge Walsh of Chicago.

The officers from Granite City Chapter present were: Junior Graduate Regent Sara Gusewelle, Senior Regent Rosella Mead, Junior Regent Pauline Presley, Recorder Dorothy Coy and Chaplain Clara Johnson.

Mrs. Walsh thanked the Granite City Chapter for being the hostess and welcomed the other chapters. Chaplain Clara Johnson led the co-workers in the chapter prayer before the session began.

The session was held to bring forth any changes from Mooseheart on the ritual or handbook and to discuss questions from the other chapters which might be of interest and held to all chapters.

Only the officers of the chapters are invited to executive sessions. Chapters represented were Alton, Belleville, Cahokia, Collinsville, East St. Louis, Edwardsville, Granite City, Greater Chicago, Jerseyville, Mascoutah and Wood River.

During the social hour, gifts were awarded to several visiting co-workers and a lunch was served to 45 co-workers. The next session also will be hosted by Granite City Chapter in March.

Susan Beth Willaredt and Charles George Suhayda were married in a candlelight ceremony June 16 at St. John United Church of Christ. The double-ring ceremony was performed at 7:30 p.m. by Pastor James Mory.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Willaredt of Route 2, Edwardsville, formerly of Granite City. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Denis Suhayda of Matawan, N.J.

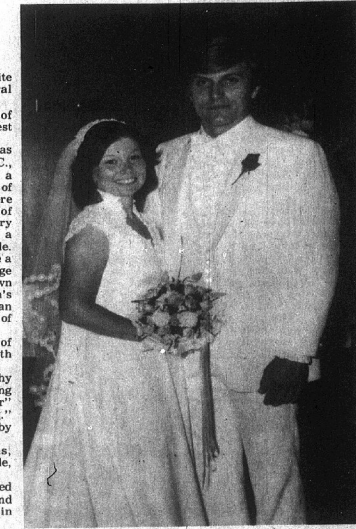

The bride wore a gown of white polyester with a high-rise waistline and a full skirt edged in silk Venice lace. The Queen Anne neckline, cap sleeves, bodice and the back yoke of net were overlaid with silk Venice lace.

The chapel length train extended from the back yoke and fell in soft folds to form the train, which was edged in lace. She wore a fingertip veil edged with Venice lace, secured to a Juliet cap of silk Venice lace.

The bride carried a colonial bouquet of pink silk roses and white carnations.

The matron of honor was Cynthia Midland of Taylorville, a sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Martha and Maria Suhayda of Matawan, N.J., sisters of the groom.

The attendants wore sleeveless princess style gowns of coral satin, with full circular skirts and scoop necklines. Coral lace capeslets were worn over the gowns. They were matching picture hats and carried MARRIED. The former Miss Kathleen Hangauer and Richard M. Logan were united in marriage June 30 at Sacred Heart Catholic Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hangauer, 2531 Iowa St.

Kathleen Hangauer weds Richard Logan

Miss Kathleen Hangauer and Richard M. Logan exchanged wedding vows June 30 at Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hangauer, 2531 Iowa St., and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Loy Sr., also of Granite City.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Logan Sr., 81 Riviera Drive.

Father James Hill officiated at the double ring afternoon ceremony before an altar decorated with greenery.

Music for the ceremony was provided by Mrs. Vickie Simpson and Larry Smallie, with Mrs. Phyllis Talley at the organ. Selections included: "Evergreen," "The Wedding Song," "Ave Maria," "Follow Me" and the Lord's Prayer.

The bride selected a formal length gown of white organza with lace overlay in an apron effect.

The dress featured full bishop sleeves of matching lace and an attached chapel train.

She wore a fingertip veil edged in lace and secured by a lace headpiece. She carried silk orchids.

Maid of honor was Miss Mary Ellen Hangauer, a sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jan Greathouse, Mrs. Jane Franko, Mrs. Ann Peters and Miss Penny Loy, a cousin of the bride.

They were identically styled floral print gowns with a beige background. The dresses were designed with gathered waists and matching capes. They carried silk rosebuds and greenery.

Flower girls were Jamie Hangauer, a cousin of the bride, and Ann Logan, a niece of the groom. They wore long beige gowns with silk bows and carried baskets of silk rosebuds and greenery.

Mrs. Hangauer, the bride's mother, wore a mint green gown and a wristlet of white carnations.

Free meal eligibility is revised

A 102 percent increase in the guidelines used to determine children's eligibility for free and reduced price meals at the school was announced this week by Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman.

The new guidelines will apply to schools and child care food program and special milk program.

"Each year we adjust the income eligibility guidelines to reflect changes in the cost of living," she said.

The new income guidelines, effective July 1, 1979, to June 30, 1980, reflect the change between the 1979 average of the Consumer Price Index and the index of March 1979.

States are required by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to set eligibility for free meals and milk at the percent of the income guidelines, and for reduced price meals, at 185 percent.

Thus, under the new guidelines, a family of four can earn up to $8,940 and maintain eligibility for free meal and milk. Reduced price meals will be provided to children in a family of four earning $13,940 or less.

Previously, the guidelines were set at $6,400 for free meals and milk, and $12,600 for reduced price meals.

In applying the new guidelines, school and institutions may consider both the income of the family during the previous 12 months and the family's current rate of income, to determine which is the better indicator of a child's need.

Children whose parents become unemployed will be eligible during the period of unemployment, if the loss of income places the family within the eligibility limits.

BIBLE SCHOOL IS PLANNED
A planning session for a Bible school to be held at Trinity Methodist Church at E. 25th and Henry streets Aug. 20-24 was held this week.

Those attending the meeting were Vida Law, John Murphy, Myrtle Bledsoe, Barbara Jarrett, Glenda Coleman, Bonnie Rutowski and Mae Lee.

The quilling ladies finished a quilt that will be used as a prize. Games and quilling followed the meeting.

New Hope Chapter is honored

Granite Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, met Friday evening to honor New Hope Chapter. Donna Kagy, worthy matron, and Joseph Bilbrey, worthy patron, presided.

Grand lecturers present were Dorothy Edwards, New Hope Chapter, Betty McClintock, Grand Electa in 1977, Hazel Wood, Arline Fox and Mary Bilbrey of Granite Chapter.

Past Grand Martha of 1942, Bess Henley of Granite Chapter, was guest of honor for the evening, and Worthy patron Leo Lipe of New Hope Chapter was guest in the East. A poem entitled "Friendship is a Blessing" was read to them by Worthy Matron Donna Kagy. Remarks were made by both and they introduced the members of their chapter and thanked them for coming.

Virginia John, past matron of Granite Chapter, was then escorted to the East and presented her 50-year pin. She was read a poem and thanked for 50 years of service and love to her chapter and the Order of the Eastern Star.

Board members and members of Grand Chapter Committees were: Thelma Janson, Sandy Simpson, Ed Schilling, all of New Hope Chapter, and Dorothy Brokaw, Clara Harbig, Hulda Griffith, Ida Cariss, Rachel Larsen, Isabel Dickman, Karmyn Edmonds, Harry McClintock, David John, and Wendell Gritz of Granite Chapter.

Clara Harbig was escorted and honored for her 32nd birthday. She made remarks and told a little of the history of her years in the Order of the Eastern Star.

A memorial ceremony was held for Ruby Winter, a deceased member of Granite Chapter.

Mary French gave a final report on the tabernacle project, which was won by Gladys Fuhrman. Worthy Matron Donna Kagy thanked Blanche Lane and Mary French.

Donna Boyer, associated matron, gave a final report on the calendar project. Donna Kagy recognized Hazel Wood, Dorothy Watkins and Mary Bilbrey for their help with the official visit invitations and programs.

Protem officers for the evening were Dorothy Brokaw as marshal, Hazel Wood as chaplain, Bess Henley as Electa, Rachel Larsen as Elea and Blanche Lane as warder. Granite Chapter will be on vacation until Aug. 24, which will be Friends Night at 8 o'clock.

Betty McClintock, instructor of Granite Chapter, welcomed all visitors, congratulated Virginia John on receiving her 50-year pin and Clara Harbig on her 32nd birthday.

The dining room was decorated with strawberry crates filled with strawberries as centerpieces on the tables. Each member received a farmer clothespin doll as a favor.

Local women to perform in Dallas, Tex.

The Delta Kappa Gamma Society International will hold its 50th anniversary regional convention in Dallas, Tex., July 22-27. Over 3,000 women educators from the United States will attend. Performing at the Dallas Hilton Wednesday evening at the Lambda State Illinois Banquet and later at the Northeast Regional Reception honoring 16 states are the following teachers, supervisors, principal and administrative assistants from the Quad-City area. These local women belong to Alpha Eta or Beta Eta chapters of the society. They are known professionally as the "Downstaters from Madison County." When they last performed at the international convention in Chicago last July they received a 15-minute standing ovation from over 6,000 women teachers from all over the world.

Attending from the Quad-City area will be: Valerie Stevens, accompanist; Marguerite Connole, narrator; Agnes P. Frynk, Helen Furkapple, Linda McDaniel, Ed Moore and Vivian Raffale.

OLDEST PERSON at the reunion is Ellis Roussan, 88, shown enjoying a visit with a former neighbor, Mrs. Emma Lou Stern, 70. Mrs. Stern lived in "Kokomo Village" until the age of 17.

'Kokomo' reunion brings joy

By MICK STRANGE
of the Press-Record

The homes have been gone since 1943, but the friendships formed by the families of "Kokomo Village" live on. Proof of the fact was the turnout of 159 persons, for the most part former "Kokomo" residents and their families, at a reunion during the weekend at Wilson Park Shelter One.

The atmosphere was one of happiness as one former resident, Mrs. Emma Lou Stern, 70, put it: "I'm having a wonderful time. Why, there are people from all around coming here today. A lot of people are real happy over this reunion."

"Kokomo Village" was made up of 11 homes located at the east end of the coke ovens on Edwardsville Road (Route 162) between the 1920s and early 1940s.

The houses were first purchased by the Koppers United Company, which opened a defense plant there. The houses were rented only to employees of the plant.

In 1943, the houses were torn down. The plant is now the blast furnace division of Granite City Steel.

Howard Bolton, organizer of the reunion, said, "I thought none of us were getting any younger and it was time we got together. People came from southern Florida, Alabama and Kentucky to renew old friendships. When I saw all the happy faces and people seeing each other for the first time in 40 years I felt it was all worthwhile."

"I sure can't say enough about how the Press-Record helped us and we'll never forget that. The word sure got around fast after the paper carried the news of the reunion."

Bolton said the event will be held again next year on the third Sunday of July.

"I know we will have more people here next year, as we have started planning now. I got at least 40 letters and phone calls from people who could not change their plans for this year's get-together. We decided to get the word out now so vacations and schedules can be arranged," Bolton said.

The oldest former resident of the village area attending was Ellis Roussan, who is 88.

Judge refuses to quash confession

On March 21, a 17-year-old St. Louis youth told Venice police that he murdered Miss Jacqueline Faye Shipley, 19, and left her body on Venice's McKinley Bridge. Tuesday, Circuit Judge Horace L. Calvo of Granite City refused to suppress the confession and set the youth's trial for the week of Sept. 10.

Pierre Pitt was to have gone on trial Tuesday in Madison County Circuit Court in Edwardsville, but Judge Calvo granted the delay on the request of Defense Attorney Mark Bahn who said he needs more time to find a witness, Lisa Shipley, the sister of the slain woman.

Calvo also took under advisement a motion to dismiss the murder charge. Miss Shipley was shot twice in the head with a .32-caliber pistol and was dumped on the bridge. Her car was later found on Interstate 70 near the Missouri side of the bridge.

Pitt allegedly told Venice police Miss Shipley had arranged to have him shot and he was shot in a leg a week before she was murdered.

Venice police said the killing may have been related to drug wars in the St. Louis area.

Lincoln Place picnic Aug. 5

Ethnic foods and music will highlight the Lincoln Place neighborhood picnic and homecoming celebration scheduled to take place this year on Aug. 5.

The event will be sponsored by the Lincoln Athletic Club's board of directors in cooperation with Harold Brown, superintendent of Granite City Parks and Recreation, Mayor Paul Schuler and the City Council of Granite City.

Members of the organizing committee said the homecoming picnic will start at 1 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 5, at the Park District Community Center, 822 Niedringhaus Ave. Admission is free and the festivities will continue into the evening hours.

Music for dancing and listening will be provided from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. by the Vince Debevec band.

Several organizations already have agreed to participate in the celebration by furnishing various food items and other picnic fare for sale, the sponsors said.

The Arbor Club will offer watermelon, soft drinks and corn-on-the-cob; and the Armenian group will feature shish-ke-babs and baklava. Mexican delicacies with tacos, tortillas and tamales will be provided by the Mexican Club and St. Cyril and Method Church will have zelnik and gyros for sale.

Cakes and cookies will be featured by the Lincoln Place Mothers Club and the Lincoln Athletic Club is planning a beer stand.

Those in charge of arranging the celebration are Vasil Elitmov, Andy Hagopian, Vassil Georgeff, Barry Loman, Michael Hagopian, Ted Dineff, Robert Martinez, Louis Miller, Paul Kraus, James Varadani and Leland Ambuehl.

Eagles Auxiliary praised at 1979 state convention

The Illinois Auxiliaries of the Fraternal Order of Eagles met in Aurora for their 31st annual state convention. Attending from Granite City Auxiliary 1126 as delegates were Shirley Robinson, Kathleen Reed, Helen Frazier and Florence Hagmayer.

Members of the Granite City Eagles Aires Kitchen Band attending were Angie Buehler, Florida Batson, Emma Portell, Marge Kindle, Phyllis Seka, Nancy Mullen and Eileen Rickert. Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Hagmayer are also members of the band, which played during the convention at the Aurora Eagles Home, entertaining over 200 Eagles and guests.

Among the many activities taking place at the convention were initiation of candidates by the Rockford Auxiliary Ritual team, the annual memorial service presented by the Forest Park Auxiliary memorial team and the Annual Convention Banquet, held this year at the Lincoln Inn in nearby Batavia.

One of the highlights of the banquet is the introduction of each Auxiliary's newly installed president and the junior past president. Included in this honor were Mrs. Robinson, president, and Mrs. Reed, junior past president, of Granite City.

After the banquet, a report was given on all donations received for each of the Eagle-sponsored charities.

It was announced that a total of over $50,000 was received from the Illinois Auxiliaries for the Eagles Heart Fund, Jimmy Durante Crippled Children's Fund, Golden Eagle Fund, Eagles Cancer Fund, Illinois State Auxiliary Disaster Fund, Eagles Educational Fund, City of Hope and the State President's Project.

Granite City was one of the auxiliaries commended for 100 percent participation, and the auxiliary also received third prize for its publicity book.

Auxiliary Secretary Helen Frazier was one of the Illinois secretaries presented with a gift for being a "star" secretary, a title which is given those who send in all reports and take care of auxiliary business as prescribed by the Grand Aerie.

The convention ended with installation of new state officers, with Betty Church of Decatur being installed as president, and Mary Stogner of Collinsville being installed as vice-president. The new president is using the butterfly as her theme and her colors are to be yellow and white.

Next year's Illinois state convention will be held in Decatur.

DAVE ANDERSON, Steelworkers Local 1063, American Steel Foundries, will serve as division chairman for Venice Public Schools in the fall 1979 Tri-Cities Area United Way campaign.

Anderson was appointed by General Campaign Chairman George Knecht and Government Employees Group Vice Chairman George Amisch Jr. Anderson also serves as a member of the United Way board of directors and executive committee.

Educational classes offered here by 'Y'

The Tri-City Area YMCA has announced it will offer educational enrichment classes for youths, grades first through sixth, beginning July 30. Instruction will be offered in music and art and classes will meet on Monday and Wednesday mornings for four weeks.

The music class will be taught by Julie Oyen. Mrs. Oyen said that included in the instruction will be games, singing, listening and playing of musical instruments such as the autoharp, rhythm instruments and bells.

"Emphasis will be on fun experiences rather than formal learning," she said. First through third grades will meet from 9-10 a.m. Grades fourth through sixth will follow from 10-11 a.m. Instructing the arts and crafts class will be Evelyn Davis. Grades fourth through sixth will meet from 9-10 a.m. and first through third graders will meet from 10-11 a.m.

The cost for the educational enrichment classes is $3 for a single class for Y members or $5 for the two. For non-members the fee is $5 for one class or $8 for the package. Registration is made by calling 576-7200.

RETURN HOME FROM VISIT IN TEXAS

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Myers of Arlington Heights and grandson, Gregory B. Holder of Creve Coeur, Mo., have returned from a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Bradford of Bedford, Tex., formerly of Arlington (Granite City).

They also visited Baylor University, Waco, Tex., where Gregory Holder has been accepted. He will move there in August.

Tri-City 113 loses marathon to Freeburg 5-4

By TOM SCHOCKER
for the Press-Record
FREEBURG — Two days and 11 innings after it started, Tri-City Post 113's American Legion baseball game with Freeburg came down to one pitch here last night. And it didn't go Tri-City's way.

Tri-City dropped a 5-4 decision to Freeburg in 11 innings in a game that was suspended Monday night because of darkness with the score tied 2-2 after nine innings.

"Tri-City scored two runs in the top of the tenth inning to take a 4-2 lead here yesterday and had Freeburg down to its last out — its last pitch — of the game, but faltered. With one out, Freeburg's McGuire grounded to Tri-City shortstop Kevin Sykes, who threw the ball over first baseman Todd McFarland's head, sending the runner to second.

With two out and a 1-2 count on him, Freeburg's VonDerLinden knocked a grounder to McFarland who batted it, allowing McGuire to score. VonDerLinden went to second.

Mike Roy then singled, putting runners at first and third. Then Manse hit one off Tri-City second baseman Bob Stegemeier's glove, allowing the tying run to cross the plate.

In the 11th inning,

Freeburg loaded the bases and with the infield in, scored on a bloop single.

The loss leaves Tri-City with a final District 22 record of 13-6, the same as Alton and good enough for a tie for first place in the North Division. Last night after the game, Tri-City manager Kirk manager Curt Hagen to see which team Tri-City will play in the post-season playoffs which begin Saturday. Tri-City lost that, too.

Champion went to Alton to flip a coin with Alton

Last night, Collinsville defeated fourth-place Highland 19-5, meaning that Tri-City will face Edwardsville, the third-place team, Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Granite City South Field in the first round of the North Division playoffs. Alton will face Highland.

"It was a sour way to end the season," said Champion. "We needed the momentum. We had some after beating Alton so badly Tuesday night (see related story). If we'd have lost this game Monday night, and come back and beat Alton, it would have still given us momentum. But this way, it's kind of hard to accept. Gaining a victory over Fairview Heights Saturday enabled Tri-City to remain in a first place tie with Alton. All they needed to do was

Post 'E-126' defense gives up first place

By PETE HAYES

of the Press-Record

ALTON — Pressure game indeed. Tuesday's American Legion game here between Tri-City Post 113 of Granite City and the hosts had been labeled as a "must" game for both teams. But only one of the two appeared ready for the pressure. And it wasn't Alton.

Post 126 coughed up a 2-1 lead in the fifth inning when it showed a sieve-like defense and allowed six Tri-City runs to cross the plate. The Granite Cityans won 9-2 and clinched at least a tie for first place with Alton, pending the outcome of last night's Tri-City-Freeburg make-up clash (see related article above). Alton and Tri-City entered Tuesday's game with identical 12-5 records, so the game was crucial to each.

But as is the case in many such games, the outcome was not decided by the power of bats, but the pitching and the defense of both teams. Tri-City grabbed a 1-0 lead in the second inning by virtue of an Alton error. Alton came back to claim a 2-1 lead when Tri-City third baseman Jeff Parker overthrew first base on a routine ground ball on what would have been the third out of the inning.

But Alton's Brakeville brothers, pitcher Chip and shortstop Ross, more than made up for Parker's error. Trip made two errors and Ross committed three. But they were not alone. In all, Alton committed 10 errors in the game.

The game looked respectable enough through the first four innings. In the second of the fifth, Tri-City designated hitter Jim Lewis walked but was forced when left fielder Jeff Tretter hit into a double play. After Mike DeGonia grounded out, first baseman Todd McFarland singled Tretter to third. Then catcher Mark Linhart hit a slow-roller toward second baseman Kent Newcomb. With McFarland skipping rope to avoid being hit by the ball, Newcomb was momentarily screened on the play. He booted the ball and Tretter came in to score.

In the Alton second, Newcomb walked, stole second and scored when with two out, Parker threw designated hitter Dave Ringhausen's grounder over the head of first baseman McFarland to score. Then Tretter went to second on the error and scored when Pat Morrissey singled.

In the fifth, it was Alton's turn. First McFarland walked. He was sacrificed to second by Linhart. Then a series of plays that probably made Alton manager Curt Hagen wish he'd stayed home.

Kevin Sykes reached on a fielder's choice when Newcomb chose to try and throw McFarland out at third instead of Sykes. Then Jim Thurman hit one back to the Chip Brakeville, the pitcher, who threw the ball wildly over first baseman Steve Hankins' head. McFarland scored on the play.

Bob Stegemeier then reached on a fielder's choice, which scored Sykes. After Stegemeier stole second and Parker filed out, Lewis grounded the ball to Ross Brakeville at shortstop. He couldn't find the handle on it and Thurman scored.

Tretter then singled into short-center field scoring Stegemeier. The ball eluded Alton centerfielder Morrissey and Tretter took second on the play. DeGonia singled Tretter home for the (where!) last run of the inning.

"We were hustling, making them (Alton) make the mistakes," said Tri-City manager Kirk Champion. "If Tretter's not running hard all the way, we don't score another run. If McFarland's head isn't in the game, we might not score any."

Tri-City added single runs in the sixth and seventh innings. "We've got to forget this one," said Champion. "We did things to make it happen, but we could very well be facing these guys again in the playoffs. They will be out for blood, you can bet."

In addition to the action on basepaths, Tri-City pitcher Al Yount turned in a good performance. Overcoming a shaky start, he held Alton to four hits. Two runs on four hits is about right, but Tri-City scored its nine runs on only three.

"It was aggressive," said Champion. "It makes it happen. We aren't going to overpower too many teams. We have to be out there giving 100 percent all the time."

ONE MORE TIME. Tri-City Post 113's Jeff Tretter slides in safely at home Tuesday during his team's six-run fifth inning against Alton. Tri-City went on to defeat Alton 9-2 and clinched first place in the North Division of District 22... thanks in part to some shoddy fielding by Alton. (Press-Record Photo)

'Die Deutsche Kommen' (The Germans are coming)

GRANITE CITY — International soccer is returning to Granite City. A touring team from Germany, called "Oberursel," will play the Southern Illinois Select team this Saturday, July 21 at 8 p.m. at the St. Elizabeth lighted soccer field in Granite City. It will be virtually the same Southern Illinois team that headed a touring Australian team its only defeat of an American trip earlier this spring in Granite City.

The game is being organized, as was the Australian contest, by Granite City's Andy Gasparovic. He has made arrangements for the German team to play two games in Belleville, one in Granite City and two in Alton.

Tuesday, the Germans defeated the Belleville entry in the Metro Soccer League in Belleville.

Tonight, the Southern Illinois Select team will battle the Germans at Belleville's Latterman Park at 7:30 p.m.

Sunday, the Alton Optimists team will play the Germans at Gordon Moore Park in Alton at 3 p.m. The Southern Illinois Select Team will play them again next Wednesday at Gordon Moore Park at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, July 28, the Germans will travel to Chicago to face the Illinois State Select team.

The "Oberursel" team is celebrating its 75th anniversary with the tour of the United States.

The community in which the team will be playing will be the hosts of the German team. Players from Germany will be staying in homes in Belleville, Granite City and Alton.

The game marks the second international soccer event in Granite City this year. The Select Team process was put into motion in this area in April. As one of the prime concerns, according to the Gasparovic, international competition was felt necessary to help strengthen the Illinois youths' soccer skills.

Next year, it is hoped that teams from England and Poland will be able to come to this area. Also, plans are in the making for an international tournament and perhaps even a trip to Europe of Illinois kickers.

The international competition this summer provides neighboring towns to "catch up" with Granite City in soccer. The Steel Town has long been the number one soccer development center of Illinois — and one of the best in the Midwest.

The Southern Illinois team that battles the Germans will be without the services of four Granite Cityans. Jack Burnett, Randy DeRousse, David Fernandez and Tony Pierce are taking part in "National Sports Festival II," sponsored by the United States Olympic Committee, in Colorado Springs, Colorado as extension of the Select Team process (see related story).

There will be a $1 charge per adult for admission to the game soccer German squad Saturday.

will begin next weekend and be held from July 26 to Aug. 5 in Rock Island.

There will be three Granite City teams entered: A.O. Smith, Sammy's Tavern and the Raiders' Athletic Club. The tournament winner and runner-up will advance to the Midwest Regional in Chicago. Games will be played at Douglas Park and Blackhawk Park in Rock Island.

Glen Carbon wins 4-2

By KEVIN ALLEN

BETHALTO — Following Glen Carbon's 4-2 win over Bethalto in a Tuesday's American Legion baseball game, someone among the group of players, coaches, and fans assembled around the Glen Carbon bench said, "Now if only Highland would lose its last four games..."

The line drew smiles from those who heard it. The speaker referred to Glen Carbon's chances of making the district 22 play-offs. By winning its final game of the season, Glen Carbon still has a shot at the tournament. But Highland would have to paractically self-destruct in order for Glen Carbon to sneak into fourth. So realistically, the win over Bethalto was little more than a post script on a season replete with disappointment and missed opportunity.

"It seems like we did better when there was no pressure left at the end," Art Jovi, Glen Carbon's coach said. "We're pretty much out of it for the last two games, and the guys have been really loose."

But there was more than just an attitude transformation Tuesday. Glen Carbon came up with some rare commodities — timely hitting and some depth in the pitching department.

Three Glen Carbon pitchers, Greg Faulkner, Keith Burton and Bob Ford, combined to pitch a four-hitter against Bethalto. On the offensive side, Glen Carbon collected seven hits for its four runs. The big runs for Glen Carbon came in the seventh. At the time it looked as if O-C runs were merely insurance, as Glen Carbon took a 3-1 lead into the inning.

Bethalto came up with two runs in the bottom of the seventh to cut the lead to one run. Tim Dudley scored the eventual winning run for Glen Carbon in the seventh. A wild pitch with Dudley at third was responsible. (Continued on Page 25)

Women start tomorrow

Softball state games set

GRANITE CITY — Pairings have been announced for the annual Illinois Amateur Softball Association State Men's Class AA and Women's Major tournaments.

The Women's Tournament will be held in Collinsville and Maryville and will be held this weekend. There will be five Granite City teams involved in the Women's Tournament. The teams are VFW Post 1300, Valmeyer Pacers, Apple Valley, Bill's Auto Body and G & G Car Wash (of Madison).

Bill's Auto Body was selected to go to the tournament as the runner-up in last year's tourney. Actually, Sammy's of Granite City finished second, but did not enter a team this year. Bill's finished third and was moved up to Sammy's spot. On Friday, VFW Post 1300 will face Collinsville Number 4 at 8 p.m. at Fletcher Field in Collinsville. Saturday, the Valmeyer Pacers will play Collinsville Number 5 at 9 a.m. in Maryville. Apple Valley will face Monticello Number 1 at Fletcher Field Saturday at 3 p.m. Bill's Auto Body faces Macomb Number 1 in Maryville Saturday at 1 p.m. G & G Car Wash will play Harrisburg Number 2 Saturday at 11 a.m. in Collinsville. The Women's Tournament will involve 42 teams. The Men's Tournament

All-Stars Friday

ST. LOUIS — The American Legion District 22 All-Star baseball team, comprised of some 36 players from both the North and South divisions, will play a similar team from the St. Louis metropolitan area Friday night at 8:30 at Heine Field in south St. Louis.

The game will be the first one for the Illinois all-stars. In 1985, the team from South divisional teams July 31 in Highland for the annual District 22 All-Star game at VFW Park.

This marks the second straight year the affair has been held in Missouri. Last year's game, which Illinois won, was held at ABC Park in St. Anne. Five Granite Cityans will be on the District 22 squad. From Tri-City Post 113, third baseman Jeff Parker, outfielder-second baseman Bob Stegemeier and pitcher Al Yount. From Glen Carbon Post 435, shortstop Bob Batey and pitcher Greg Faulkner. Tri-City manager Kirk Champion, whose team was North Division champion in his first year, has been selected to be one of the coaches for the North Division all-stars.

Paddlers break five records in victory

GRANITE CITY — The Paddlers Swimming and Diving Team of Granite City broke five individual team records and in the process annihilated arch-rival Gaslight of Collinsville, 353-273 here Tuesday.

Records were broken by Rosie Baggot in the Girls 15-17 50 yard freestyle in a time of :30.01, breaking her own record; Deena Hankins in the Girls 8-Under 25 yard breaststroke in :23.40, breaking a 1973 record; John Amisch in the Boys 9-10 50 yard backstroke in :44.40, breaking Jason Jolly's record from 1977; Jason Jolly in the Boys 11-12 backstroke in :38.54, breaking the 1966 record of Eric Cunningham; and Cindy Stroheide in the Girls 11-12 backstroke in :39.34, breaking a record set in 1978 by Denise Darnell.

Also breaking relay records were two Paddlers relay teams. The 8-Under Boys freestyle team of Vince Darnell, Billy McCormick, Joe Martinez and Marc Fussell set a new mark of 1:30.26. The Girls 15-17 freestyle relay team of Terri Schuler, Mary Brandt, Rosie Baggot and Michelle Jeness set a mark of 2:13.12, breaking a 1977 record.

In the actual competition Tuesday, Paddlers winners in the 100 yard freestyle were Cindy Stroheide, Denise Darnell, Kelly Mann and Terri Schuler.

In the Medley Relay events, Paddlers winners were the 9-10 boys team, the 9-10 girls team, the 11-12 girls team, the 13-14 girls team, the 15-17 boys team and the 15-17 girls team.

Paddlers freestyle winners were Vince Darnell, Mike

McCormick, Kim Mushill, Angela Durborrow, John Becherer and Rosie Baggot. Individual medley winners were John Amisch, Kristi Toussaint, Jason Jolly, Cindy Stroheide, Shawn Allen, Susie Ponce and Rosie Baggot.

In the breaststroke competition, Paddlers winners were Deena Hankins, J'Lynne Hankins, Susie Ponce and Mary Brandt. Backstrokers victorious for Paddlers were John Amisch, Kristi Toussaint, Jason Jolly, Cindy Stroheide, Shawn Allen, Denise Darnell and Kelly Mann.

In the butterfly competition, Paddlers winners were John Amisch, Patti Martin, Jason Jolly, Shawn Allen, Denise Darnell and Rosie Baggot.

Freestyle relay winners for Paddlers were the 8-Under boys team, the 9-10 girls, 13-14 girls, 15-17 boys and 15-17 girls.

In the diving competition, Paddlers defeated Gaslight 48-23. Winners were Mike McCormick, Chris Doneff, Marc Doneff, Kathy Zeugin, Richard Schilish, Lisa Lilly and Jim Gaddo.

The next meet for Paddlers will be July 24 at Summersport in Alton. Diving will begin at 5 p.m. with swimming competition to follow around 6 p.m.

GC kickers at Olympic training site

COLORADO SPRINGS — Four Granite City soccer players are now taking part in the "National Sports Festival II" here, sponsored by the United States Olympic Committee.

The four, Tony Pierce, Randy DeRousse, David Fernandez and Jack Burnett, were chosen earlier this month from among nearly 100 players at the Midwest United States Youth Soccer Federation "workout camp" in LaPorte, Ind.

The ultimate goal of the young soccer players is selection to the United States National Youth team, and perhaps a berth on the Junior Olympic squad.

The four left for Colorado Monday. They made up four-fifths of the Illinois contingent, one Chicago-area player being chosen. Four were selected from Missouri.

The Opening Ceremonies for the Festival will be July 26. However, all athletes are already there training. The actual competition will involve scrimmaging, practicing workouts, to be observed by the selection committee. Other sports are involved besides soccer.

Paddlers lessons

GRANITE CITY — The second session of Paddlers' swimming lessons will begin Monday, July 23 at the Paddlers Pool, Johnson Road in Granite City. The sign-up for the lessons will be Saturday, July 21 at the pool from 9 until 11 a.m.

SPIN-DRY? Jason Jolly of Paddlers Diving team looks toward his watery reward during diving competition. Jolly and teammates defeated Gaslight of Collinsville easily Tuesday.

YMCA camps set

GRANITE CITY — The week of July 9 marks the beginning of the third session of both Kiddie Camp Adventure and Day Camp Adventure at the Tri City Area YMCA. Kiddie Camp meets on Tuesdays and Thursdays only from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., and features a swimming lesson, crafts, movies, games and special downtown trips. For further information on either of these camps, those interested may call the YMCA at 876-7200.

Sheet Metal falls

MADISON, Wis. — Granite Sheet Metal, the Illinois State Girls soccer champions, lost a 4-1 decision here Sunday in the sub-regional finals of the United States Youth Soccer Association Girls' Tournament.

Sheet Metal, made up of girls age 14 and under, defeated two Wisconsin teams Saturday to gain the final game. In Saturday's first game, the Granite Cityans beat the Wisconsin 'A' team 3-1. Outshooting the Wisconsin club 38-1, Granite's goals were scored by Sandy Zarlingo (2), and Susan Ponce. Chris Kessler had two assists while Carolyn Horbelt had one.

In Saturday's second game, the Granite City club beat the Wisconsin 'B' team 4-0. Sheet Metal outshot Wisconsin 42-1. Scoring were Karen DeRousse, Chris Kessler, Michelle Loftus and Sandy Zarlingo. Assists went to Carolyn Horbelt (2), Gina Graham and Michelle Loftus. Nancy Jones was in goal for the second game. B. Christoff was the goalie in the first game.

This marked the first year for a girls USYSA program in Illinois.

German kickers

GRANITE CITY — The touring German soccer team "Oberursel" will hold a demonstration opt soccer skills at a "mini-clinic" Saturday at 6:30 p.m. prior to its 8:30 p.m. game at St. Elizabeth Field with the Southern Illinois Select team. The demonstration will be a $1 charge per adult per the game and clinic. However, a special team price of $5 is being offered. There is no charge for admission to those 12 years old or younger.

beat Freeburg on the road to clinch a tie for the top spot just before the playoffs. It was easier said than done.
Freeburg, a first-year club in Legion ball in last place, and Tri-City coming off a five game tear allowing the opposition an average of one run a game, much Monday's game a breeze in the eyes of Post 113. You would think with odds so much against them that Freeburg would be overwhelmed. It was not the case and the game was far from being easy for Tri-City.
Both clubs played stallmate for the first three innings, Tri-City banging out a virtually unstoppable one hit and Freeburg being set down in order. Although Post

113 had its chance the explosions of the efforts were not there. The first frame found runners on first and second without an out being recorded. Unfortunately, Tri-City came up with a goose egg.
Determination and good coaching by Vrenick, the key factors as Tri-City broke through in the fourth. Walks were issued to Bob Stegemeier and Jeff Parker.
Head Coach Kirk Champion
then pulled off a picture perfect double steal setting up runners in scoring position. A one out delivery to Jeff Tretter was sent back through the infield into right-center for a two run double and Tri-City finally had the lead.

Post 113's starting pitcher David Weil looked sharp in work, setting down all nine men he faced including two strikeouts. Thoughts of a Fairview repeat performance ran wildly through Tri-City's mind and content with the lead they sat.

Not expecting too much offense from Freeburg, Tri-City continued its steady defense. However it was the defense that hurt Post 113 in the fourth. An error, a misplaced ball in the outfield, coupled with two hits and Freeburg put a lump in Tri-City's throat, as they knew the game at 2-2.

Even though the tie was not broken in regulation play, Freeburg gave Post 113 a scare before nightfall. The fifth inning found runners on first and third, the sixth saw runners at first and second and the seventh frame put the winning run on second, but excellent fielding and tough pitching by Weil prevented it from being the cup for the bottle.

The game was sent into extra innings before anyone could gain the victory. Not willing to give in, the hurlers pitched into the night.
Darkness fell quickly and the game was postponed after nine innings until Wednesday.
It was like a blessing in disguise for Tri-City.
Freeburg threatened once more, putting runners on in the eighth and ninth but Weil found the strike zone and fanned four of the last six outs, including striking out the side in the ninth.

Cycle racing returns to Godfrey Speedway

GODFREY — Take heart, motorcycle racing fans, your favorite sport is alive and well at Godfrey Speedway.
Wib Spalding, owner of the Godfrey Speedway, and Carl Houston, an official of the American Motorcycle Association, have announced that AMA-sanctioned cycle racing will make its first appearance of the season at the speedway Tuesday, July 24 at 7 p.m.

Spalding is one of the area's best-known race car drivers. The Pontoon Beach native purchased the old Alton Speedway earlier this year, spruced it up and renamed it the Godfrey Speedway. According to Spalding, the auto racing program has been going so well this summer, that he decided to branch out into motorcycles. He credits the ideal to Houston.

Houston, who manages the K-Mart store in Granite City, said he is optimistic about the chances of success of cycle racing at Godfrey.
"We'll have about 70 bikes the first night," he said.
"And depending on how things go the first two weeks, we'll probably have more after that."

racing to take place at Godfrey every Tuesday night for the rest of the summer... if things go as planned... the first two Tuesday nights.

According to Spalding, there will be eight races Tuesday night. Depending on the number of entries, there could be elimination heats.
The track at Godfrey is a quarter-mile high-bank dirt
one. The purse will be $1,500.

Among some of the entrants Tuesday will be Terry Poovey, Rod Hartwell and Steve Steele of Granite City.

Godfrey Speedway is located near highways 67 and 111, two miles north of the Beltline in Godfrey.

season-ending victory into yet another disappointment.

After striking out the lead-

Larry Hawkins, drove in Anderson with a triple over

Dudley.

infield out by the next batter Dave McClintock. But Ford got the third out when he induced Rick Fleet to ground end the game.

Tough for blouse addict to kick the habit

I am fast becoming a blouse junkie. I can't seem to stay away from buying them, even when they are NOT on sale.

My addiction comes from my early childhood, when I was a poor little waif who had so few things to wear that my mother used to create my shirts from grocery bags. She would cut holes in the things for my head and arms, trimming them with domestic lace. Boy, is that a whopper. Actually, both of my parents worked; between the two salaries, I wanted for nothing.

"What then, has caused me to go so wild over blouses? I have no excuse, save that I am weak and a pretty shirt gets me every time.

I will be walking down the street, as innocent as can be when I will casually look into some store window. I somehow spot another blouse that I just HAVE to have.

My husband rants and raves every time I bring another blouse into the house. I have told him all sorts of stories about how they were on sale and just too good a bargain to pass up.

But most of those stories are contrived to make him quit his yelling. What I really need is someone to help me with my habit.

Somewhere there must be some ex-blouse junkie who can help me get off of my present abnormality. A friend who can save me from myself.

Maybe if I wore blinders on the street...

I love pretty, lacy blouses, but I also collect tee-shirts. I have many more tops than I have the pants to wear them with, but then blouses are easier for me to find.

It is difficult for me to find pants that fit, but too easy to find shirts and blouses. I can walk into any store and find at least one that I must have, and price is no object. If I don't have the cash, I charge it.

My husband says that he will have to move out of the house soon to make room for all of my clothes. I told him that he didn't have to move, just build me another closet. He didn't appreciate that remark, but then he is dealing with a blouse maniac.

Perhaps some day I will tire of shirts and blouses and move on to something else. Most likely my next fetish will be for bracelets. I just LOVE bracelets.

Poor husband. He might as well give up.

He has a spending monster on his hands, whether he or I, for that matter, can afford it or not.

COLONEL PETERSON JOIN BOOKER FIRM

Thorvald Roger Peterson has joined St. Louis-based Booker Associates, Inc., engineers, architects and planners, as director of project management. It was announced by James E. Moulder, president of the firm.

Peterson, who has just retired as a colonel, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, spent the years 1973 to 1976 as district engineer of the Corps for the St. Louis District. As director of project management, he will be responsible for the engineering management of all Booker projects.

STEAL BATTERY

While a witness watched, a small, slender young man who wore no shirt stole a battery from the auto of J.B. Pully, 1539 E. 20th St., near Pully's home early this week. The youth carried the battery to a group of young persons seated on an old white Chevrolet parked by 2015 Washington Ave. Police arrived and searched the Chevrolet, but a battery found inside did not match the one stolen from Pully's car. There were no arrests pending additional investigation.

Oil crisis worsened by government actions

By JOHN TORINUS

As the oil crisis became more and more confusing, I wondered how long it would be before some capable newspapermen would dig into the situation and come up with some believable information on the root of the problem. Several have now done so.

It took some time only because the situation is so complex, and accurate factual information was simply not forthcoming from the government or the oil industry.

At the same time President Carter and Energy Secretary Schlesinger were running off at the mouth with wild, terrorizing statements in which they contradicted themselves almost daily.

As an example, how about the one last week in which the President predicted that the OPEC price increases will precipitate a recession in the United States and 800,000 people will be thrown out of work.

Several weeks ago a team of Associated Press reporters uncovered that there had been a drop in the domestic production of crude oil late last year which had extended into this year, and that the loss of domestic production was as important a factor in the oil shortage as the loss of imported oil caused by the revolution in Iran.

Until the AP story came out, the government was blaming all our troubles on Iran.

Now a team of reporters who won a Pulitzer Prize for their reporting of the 1973-74 oil crisis has concluded an intensive investigation and has come up with the finding that federal government decisions — bungling is a better word — and oil company actions last year guaranteed the shortage of gasoline and other petroleum products which now afflicts us, and that these same actions — aggravated by Congress' failure to develop a workable energy policy after six years of debate — virtually assure a shortage of home heating fuel next winter.

The writers, Donald L. Bartlett and James B. Steele of the Philadelphia Inquirer, go on to state:

"Whether the decisions by government and industry last year were made deliberately to create shortages or resulted from simple miscalculation, bungling and inept planning, is unclear."

You can come to your own conclusion on that point after reading the following digest of their findings.

Early in 1978 the oil industry was faced with the "problem" of a huge surplus of oil. In its annual report published in early 1978, Gulf Oil Corp. told its stockholders: "The huge crude oil surplus is expected to continue through 1985."

The market for all this crude oil was weak and prices at the pumps showed it.

By the last week in May 1978, the price of gasoline had actually fallen from the same week a year earlier.

The oil companies began drawing down their inventories of gasoline and crude oil and at the same time cut back on imports of refined products and saved crude oil imports as well.

The result was that the United States ended the year 1978 with drastically depleted inventories, reduced imports and with refineries operating at 88 percent of capacity.

Now the federal government took a hand in escalating the problem.

In December of 1978 the Department of Energy diverted the largest volume of crude oil ever into the Strategic Petroleum Reserve, the government's stockpile set aside for distribution only in dire national emergency.

Obviously, the Energy Department had no knowledge of what was happening in the oil industry. But the Arabs knew.

This spring it became apparent to the OPEC nations that U.S. inventories were dangerously low and that we would have to start increasing imports. So they started adding surcharges to the contract price of their oil.

The Energy Department finally took note of the situation and responded by offering a $5 barrel subsidy to American refineries to help them buy crude from abroad.

There were other Energy Department policies and actions which further complicated the problem.

For several years now, the government has imposed regulations prohibited oil companies from charging higher prices for unleaded gasoline produced by expensive new refineries.

Not too surprisingly, the oil companies failed to invest in new refinery equipment at the same time that an increase in the output of unleaded gasoline was badly needed to produce unleaded gasoline from older refineries.

Other Energy Department regulations allow oil companies to pass through more cost i.e. charge more, for petroleum products other than gasoline, such as fuel oil.

Then at a time when lines were forming at filling stations, the Energy Department actually ordered the industry to produce more home heating fuel and reduce the production of gasoline.

It is surprising then, after reading this, that gasoline is so plentiful in short supply.

The oil industry can be justly criticized for reducing inventories and imports at some time that the demand for gasoline was increasing.

But it would have been reasonable to expect far more rapidly if government regulations hadn't interfered so critically.

Other proposed changes include:

- Decreases for most business services and increases for a few to reflect separation of local service charges from equipment charges.
- Reduction of the monthly charge for business extensions and PBX terminals by 40 cents.
- Increases in monthly equipment rates and some associated one-time charges.
- Reduction of the Branch Exchanges (PBX's or switchboards) no longer being offered to new customers.

The company has asked that tariffs filed July 13 detailing these changes be effective Aug. 15.

Illinois Bell seeking rate 'readjustments'

Illinois Bell has asked the Illinois Commerce Commission to increase from $2 to $10 and the telephone handling charge to $2 for each phone installed to $2 for each phone installed.

Residence customers who avoid all or part of the proposed service charge increases by visiting a PhoneCenter Store, the spokesman said.

"Our present charges are below what it costs us to install or rearrange phones," said H.A. Lattimer, Illinois Bell's vice president-financial and regulatory.

That means that all customers presently pay more than the cost through rates they pay for other services. These rates would help pay the costs of moving or changing service on the people who create the expense."

The realignment would also separate local service charges from equipment charges. The equipment charge and the service charge would add up to the rate charged today or to the rates proposed for the area, customers owning a non-Bell phone would not pay an equipment charge.

Other proposed changes include:

- Decreases for most business services and increases for a few to reflect separation of local service charges from equipment charges.
- Reduction of the monthly charge for business extensions and PBX terminals by 40 cents.
- Increases in monthly equipment rates and some associated one-time charges.
- Reduction of the Branch Exchanges (PBX's or switchboards) no longer being offered to new customers.

Railroad tax bill $602,018

Taxes totaling $625,072 have been extended for the 1978 tax year in the railroad tax book, County Clerk Evelyn Bowles announced this week, noting that $602,018 of the amount is charged against the 13 railroads and North Westerns operating in Madison County.

In addition to the railroad tax extension, the railroad tax book includes $17,830 in taxes of Schedule 21 which represents taxes on improvements on property leased from railroads.

Other taxes in the railroad category include $5,119 for the Wood River Levee & Drainage District and $104 for the Chouteau, Nameoki and Venice Levee & Drainage District.

The largest amount of taxes billed against any single railroad is $150,835 to be paid by the Illinois Terminal Railroad. The Terminal Railroad Association is billed for $109,390 and Norfolk & Western (Wabash).

Railroad tax payments for districts in Granite City Township will total $46,095, while Venice Township districts will receive $123,850. Railroad taxes in Chouteau Township will amount to $70,727 and those of Nameoki Township will total $97,333.

Together with regular tax extensions in the collectors' books, the railroad billings will bring to $12,791,866 the total amount of taxes billed in Granite City Township against all taxpayers.

$2,781,035 in Venice Township, $2,212,456 in Chouteau Township and $3,506,109 in Nameoki Township.

Former neighbors Willard Herzog and Robert Gibson met in Springfield, Ill., while attending the United Auto Workers Political Action Conference on labor legislation and issues. Willard Herzog attended in his capacity as Chairman of the United Auto Workers Downstate Illinois Political Council. Invited as a special guest was Robert Gibson, President of Illinois State AFL-CIO.

In the picture with Herzog and Gibson is William Schaab, Financial Secretary-Treasurer of Local 1715 UAW and Financial Secretary of the Downstate Political Council.

CONFERENCE SPEAKERS

In keeping with Region 4 tradition, officials and leaders from the two major political parties in Illinois addressed the 1979 United Auto Workers Political Action Conference. Principle speakers were: Governor James R. Thompson, Comptroller Roland W. Burris, Treasurer Jerome A. Cosentino, President and Majority Leader of the Senate Philip J. Rock, Speaker of the House William A. Redmond, House Majority Leader Michael J. Madigan, Senate Minority Leader David C. Shapiro, House Minority Whip Ben Polk, Director of Labor William M. Bowling, State Representatives Jim McPike and Sam Wolf also attended the conference.

Governor James Thompson and Willard Herzog met with other labor leaders at the three (3) day United Auto Workers Political Action Conference held in Springfield, Illinois. The conference was held to discuss Illinois Workers' Compensation, Unemployment Compensation and taxes, which affect the working people of Illinois.

'Don't let the energy crisis destroy America's lifestyle'

By PROF.

LAURENCE R. MCANENY

(Dr. McAneny is a professor in the department of physics in the School of Science and Technology at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.)

We in the United States have reached the point where the energy crisis is beginning to affect our lifestyle in a significant way. The economic impact has been apparent for some time, both directly through higher utility bills and indirectly as a result of hidden energy costs in goods and services and unfavorable trade balance.

For many, this economic impact has been softened by rising wage levels so that little deterioration of lifestyle has been noticed except by those with fixed incomes.

But now, in the summer of 1979, the supply of motor fuel has become uncertain even for those who could pay and are willing to. The result has been cancellation of planned motor trips, deferment of purchase of automobiles, especially large ones, and some adjustment of working and shopping schedules.

Thus the energy problem has now had an effect on the lives of middle and even upper class Americans.

Unlike the 1973 crisis there is no single cause to which one can point with the hope that it will be eliminated and things will return to "normal." Unfortunately, the majority of Americans refuse to accept the energy shortage as real, grasping at the straw of oil company manipulations as the cause of all the problems. And, of course, there are enough speculators and profiteers around to lend credence to this notion.

Nevertheless, there is a real shortage when viewed against the background of the enormous current rate of use in the United States.

Considering that the rest of the world is moving ever closer to our lifestyle, the shortage is more than serious; it is critical.

Coupling this with the fact that very little of the world's petroleum supply is under U.S. control, it should be obvious that the energy crunch must lead to permanent changes in our lives.

The general public and political reaction to the problem so far has been to preserve our present lifestyle as intact as possible, by importing as much oil as we can and at the same time stepping up exploration for and extraction of oil in U.S.-controlled lands and seas.

There is great controversy over how much profit the oil companies need to accomplish this last objective.

No notice seems to be taken of the fact that oil not discovered, extracted, and burned up does not represent a loss. Oil left in the ground will not deteriorate, but will be there for future generations.

It would be a self-serving diffusion to presume that some new magic source of energy will be available to our grandchildren so they won't need petroleum at all.

By contrast, most of the Arab nations are reluctant to export much oil as they have in the past, regardless of price. Apparently they recognize that it is the heritage of their descendants that we are so eager to buy and burn. Regardless of our efforts to find oil, it is extremely unlikely that our present rate of use can be maintained much longer. Inevitably, then, our lifestyle will change.

Although President Carter's first two energy messages stressed the need for conservation, almost all of the actions of the people and their representatives trying to ward off change rather than to bring it about in a controlled fashion. Indeed, since our system of government does not have facilitation of systematic long-range planning among its many advantages, our inevitable lifestyle change will likely take place via considerable chaos and much trauma.

The conflict has in fact already started among various oil-using factions: truckers, farmers, motorists, and people who heat their houses with oil. With luck, perhaps a mild winter or a deal with Mexico, we may experience a remission, but there can be no cure except to curb our appetite for petroleum.

The kind of society which will evolve from the present one depends ultimately on how successful we are in developing renewable portable fuels. This is first of all, because our agriculture and our product distribution systems cannot be weaned from portable fuel supplies. Secondly, our population and housing patterns require an enormous amount (compared to other countries) of personal transportation.

The emphasis is on portable fuels, because the supply of "stationary" fuels, used to make electricity, is less critical.

This is not to say that the use of these fuels is without hazard to health, safety and environment, but the quantity is there and there is potential in research for minimizing risks.

Ultimately, this energy dependence, too, must be shifted to renewable or superabundant sources. In the meantime, we must continue to make energy versus risk compromises.

There are several possibilities for production of new portable fuels. Liquid fuel from coal can likely be done fairly quickly, but would be wasteful of a non-renewable resource.

Oil shale is a possibility, but the water required for processing it is not available where the shale is found. Hydrogen can be a portable fuel, but of course it can produce no more energy when burned than was needed to obtain it from water.

The automobile ought to add to the quality of life on weekends, not subtract from it on weekdays.

Supposedly, we have tried public transportation and we didn't like it. Among the reasons why it hasn't worked are: low population densities in the suburbs, poor schedules, slowness, and crime.

But a system designed for the '80s, instead of the '30s, can overcome these. First of all, it must be remembered that the people in the suburbs will have cars, small ones hopefully, which they can drive to park-and-ride lots.

Schedules improve with patronage.

It can only be useful if there is an abundant supply somewhere of a less useful energy source.

This last comment typifies why the energy problem is difficult for those who think in terms of conventional economics. Two sets of books must be kept for an energy process. It must be profitable in dollars, and it must also be profitable in energy.

For example, two-thirds of the oil originally in a typical oil field is still there when the oil field is "depleted." No matter how high the price goes for a barrel of oil, it will not pay to extract one additional barrel from the field if it takes the energy of a barrel of oil to do it. The exception would be if less useful energy can be used in the recovery.

Gasohol is in this unfavorable energy balance category if made from corn. The petroleum used to plow, plant, fertilize, cultivate, harvest and process the corn is more than that saved with the resultant gasohol.

In spite of this, the production of alcohols from plant materials is the most promising way of using solar energy on a large scale.

What is needed is a self-regenerating plant (a variety of sunflower has been suggested) which will yield a large biomass with minimum expenditure of energy. Then a continuous flow fermentation process to turn the biomass to alcohol, plus a residue which can be returned to the fields.

Presently, fermentation is done in batches and the process stops when the alcohol produced kills the bacteria.

The small amount of research being done on biomass energy could be expanded to a crash program. The cry of "a bushel of grain for a barrel of oil" might well be fulfilled as a land-use tradeoff within our own boundaries.

It is unlikely that even a very successful portable fuel program will supply us with an abundance of such energy. Decisions must be made as to how the precious commodity will be used. They will be made as decisions are made now, based on economic and political considerations.

On the political side, the military will have the highest priority, with agriculture next, including, no doubt, the raising of tobacco. In spite of such nonsense, it might be well to take a look at how energy might be saved without seriously damaging the quality of life.

Personal transportation is now upmost on people's minds. It is said that Americans will never give up their cars and that the demand for gasoline will fall off very little with increased price.

Apparently, the average American will give up bread and shoes before giving up gasoline.

A close look shows that most of us must rely totally on the automobile for essential transportation such as getting to work. As long as there is no alternative, the gasoline demand has to remain flexible.

But sitting twice a day in rush-hour traffic jams does not add to the quality of life, no matter how much one loves his or her automobile. Clearly, this function should be the domain of public transportation.

Dedicated rights-of-way make trains or even buses faster than cars on jammed-up roads.

That the lots must be fenced and guarded is a cost of our society rather than of transportation.

Today's methods of moving freight are also based on cheap energy. Over-the-road trucks, for example, use many times the energy to move a ton of goods a mile than does a freight train or a barge.

The railroads themselves are barely out of the 1950s in the use of containerized cargo methods and computerized switching. There are some parts of the country where trains should be electrified, as they are already in most of Europe.

Air freight is generally viewed as an extremely energy-intensive means of moving goods. However, if blazing speed is not required, an "almost lighter-than-air" vehicle might use less energy even than trains, though not in adverse weather conditions.

In general, as energy becomes more expensive, an increasing number of industrial and personal decisions will favor capital-intensiveness rather than energy-intensiveness.

For example, barge towboats will be tied up when the river is choked with ice, rather than pushed through.

The best known example on the personal level is the decision to insulate homes.

Energy can and must be saved in virtually all activities. An inevitable result will be a rearrangement of relative prices of goods and services in line with the energy involved.

No doubt this will lead to lifestyle adjustments. But what will affect us most will be the adjustments in personal transportation. The reaction of our political leaders in 1973 and again in 1979 has been to discourage weekend sales of gasoline so that it can be saved for "essential" commuting.

In an unexpected (?) shortage, this is perhaps not unreasonable. But in the long run, it is exactly "contrary to preserving what is good about the American lifestyle."

Probation for two in 'cut shop' case

Two of four men arrested early this spring in what state police called a "cut shop" operation, have pleaded guilty to related charges and have been freed on probation.

Troopers alleged the men took parts from at least three stolen trucks and switched them, making it difficult to determine which parts were from which truck.

Information developed at the start of the investigation led to a search warrant being issued for the garage of Clarence Gibson Jr., 33, of 2633 North St., troopers said.

The warrant was served March 22 and two stolen vehicles were found—a wrecker and a truck, it was alleged. The vehicles were confiscated and the investigation expanded, a trooper said.

April 30, Gibson and Bruce Oliver, 24, of 1332 Madison Ave., surrendered to a trooper at 19th Street and Edison Avenue and were charged with felony theft. Later that day, James J. Hill, 40, of 2104 E. 24th St., was arrested at his home on the same charges.

May 1, Walter Griffith, 54, Cahokia, was arrested at his work at Prairie Farms Dairy in Granite City and was charged with attempted theft and conspiracy to commit theft. He was released a short time later on $5,000 bond.

Gibson has pleaded guilty in Madison County Circuit Court to a reduced charge of theft and Associate Judge Clayton R. Williams released him on one year of probation and a $720 fine. The other charge was dismissed by Circuit Judge Horace Calvo.

Hill has pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of criminal damage to property and Judge Williams freed him on six months of probation. Calvo dismissed the other charge.

90-DAY JAIL TERM Everett T. Hughes, 20, of 2901 Circle Drive, has been sentenced by Circuit Judge Horace Calvo to serve two years of probation and 90 days in the Madison County Jail after Hughes pleaded guilty to a felony count of theft. The charge was filed after an April 5 incident in county jurisdiction.

More recycling of hazardous wastes

Technologies for safely disposing of hazardous industrial wastes have been available for some time. But the ever-increasing cost of utilizing these technologies is now making the idea of reclaiming and recycling by-products more attractive. According to a new report in Science, the weekly journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, some new ideas for safe disposal of hazardous wastes are gaining acceptance.

The question, writes Science Research News reporter Thomas H. Maugh II, has come down to economics. Disposal of hazardous wastes at an unsecured landfill might cost an industry as little as $5 per ton, while safely incinerating the material might cost $300 per ton.

With the new, and strictly enforced, regulations issued by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, industries have gained the incentive to look for cheaper means for safely disposing of their hazardous wastes.

Industries are finding that the word "waste" might sometimes be a misnomer. Even if a company that generates the wastes cannot use them, they might be usable elsewhere. For example, waste solvents produced by the electronics industry are of very high quality and are usable by industries less sensitive to impurities.

Because of the competitiveness and secrecy in industry, it has been difficult for companies to know what is available from each other. One way to overcome this problem, Maugh reports, is through a waste exchange or clearinghouse.

There are currently 20 such exchanges in the United States, run by trade associations, chambers of commerce, universities, and state and local governments. In most cases these clearinghouses simply list the materials available; the companies involved handle the exchange or purchase.

Not all wastes can be recycled, but many can be detoxified chemically. Such treatment can either make the material completely innocuous or substantially reduce its volume, thus making it more easily disposable.

For many types of waste, especially non-chlorinated organic waste, biological treatment—particularly soil incorporation (land farming)—is acceptable.

Petroleum companies, for instance, have used land farming in successfully disposing of refinery sludge. Composting is used for sewage sludge and for plant fiber wastes in the pulp and paper industry.

Recycling, chemical treatment, and biodegradation are the least controversial and most acceptable methods for disposal of hazardous wastes. These methods require no further monitoring and have met little citizen opposition to siting of facilities.

The disadvantage of these techniques is that they can be used for only a limited percentage of hazardous wastes.

So, despite the desirability of these methods, industries will have to continue to search for hazardous waste disposal technologies that are both economically and environmentally sound, Maugh concludes.

2 charged as disorderly

Richard L. Dunning, 32, of 2043 Quincy Ave., and Marian R. Winters, 35, of 2318 Illinois Ave., were charged with disorderly conduct following their arrest at 12:35 a.m. Tuesday at 20th Street and Washington Avenue.

The arrests stemmed from alleged incidents occurring at the home of Mrs. Roberta Dunning, 2027 Lee Ave., after police were called there at 11:40 p.m. Monday and at 12:35 a.m. Tuesday, because disturbances were reported.

It was alleged Dunning and Mrs. Winters made threats and yelled obscenities at Mrs. Dunning, but had left the residence before officers arrived.

While Dunning was being taken into custody at 20th and Washington, Mrs. Winters ran up to the squad car and began shouting at the officers. It was alleged. She was released at 1:30 a.m. Tuesday on payment of $35 cash bond. Dunning was released at 2 a.m. Tuesday, also paying a $35 cash bond.

Have you ever wondered what this symbol stands for?

Here is your answer.

First of all, Realty 1 is an organization of cooperating Realtors throughout Illinois and Missouri. Our franchise membership is growing rapidly and now numbers over 50 Realtor agencies. Your local Realty 1 agency can easily be identified by the symbol as shown above, displayed in front of his office.

We feel that we have advantages over non-members for a number of reasons, one being the high standards required of all Realty 1 members. Each agency is headed by a highly competent broker who works with his trained sales people to provide the best service available.

The home buyer's and seller's interest are of foremost importance. We believe this and treat them as such.

Our referral system and association with other Realty 1 members enables us to help you locate anywhere in the United States.

Here in GRANITE CITY, ABRAMS REALTY 1 located at 3010 NAMEOKI RD. is always at your service. Our Sales Associates are standing by waiting for your call.

If you made from $15,000 to $30,000 last year selling real estate, that's not bad. But you could have made between $20,400 and $50,400 with us.

The reason for that RE/MAX Bonus is very simple: unlike the 50/50 split of traditional brokerage companies, RE/MAX sales associates receive 100% of their commissions.

100%. The whole thing.

From it, RE/MAX people pay only monthly expenses. And we can prove to you that most RE/MAX sales associates retain anywhere from 80% to 92% of their commissions after all expenses are paid.

So, if you're a professional who's looking to make more money, and wants a voice in your own company, and sees the advantages to a national referral program, give us a call.

We'll show you how you can just about write your own ticket at RE/MAX.

There have to be good reasons why more In-Sink-Erator disposers are sold and installed every year than any other major kitchen appliance.

Our grinding ring, for example, is the strongest made. A tough polypropylene shield protects against corrosion. Automatic reversing action extends the life of the grinding elements.

So ask for In-Sink-Erator next time to make your mess less. We make our disposers do more.

Ordinance No. 79-12

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING ARTICLE 3 OF CHAPTER 6 OF THE MUNICIPAL CODE OF THE CITY OF VENICE, ILLINOIS

Section 3: That Article 3 of Chapter 6 of the 1967 Municipal Code of the City of Venice, pertaining to "Nuisances," is hereby amended in the following manner by the addition of a Section (H) of Section 6-3-1, defining a further nuisance as follows:

(H) Air Pollution: To emit, agitate, or cause to be stirred and spread into the air any or all of the following substances, to wit: "dust," "fly ash," "soot," "vapors," "odors," "noxious fumes," and "noxious gases," which interfere with the use and enjoyment of adjoining property owners, adjoining residents, or in any manner be detrimental to any person, or to the public, or to endanger or interfere with the health, comfort or safety of any such person, or of the public in general, or their property.

Section 2: Penalty: That pursuant to the provisions of Section 1-4-1 of Article 4 of Chapter 1 of the 1967 Municipal Code, any person, firm or corporation, or any servant or agent or employee thereof, upon conviction of a violation of this amendatory ordinance, shall be subjected to a fine of not less than $50.00, and not more than $500.00 for any one offense.

Section 3: Each day that a violation of the provisions of this amendatory ordinance continue after a notice to abate the said nuisance shall constitute a separate and distinct violation of this ordinance.

Section 4: That this Amendatory Ordinance shall be in full force and effect 10 days from and after its passage, approval and due publication as provided by law.

PASSED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF VENICE, ILLINOIS, this 19th day of July, A.D. 1979.

UNFINISHED PROJECT. Volunteers wanting to help improve the Horseshow Lake State Park donated their labor and 14 tons of blacktop to build a boat ramp into the lake near Sandy Lake. Only to have state conservation officials stop them, saying they did not want improvements done with volunteer help. Some hunters and fishermen are upset over the decision, noting they have given the state hundreds of dollars and numerous hours in pumping out part of the lake, in seeking the lake bed and in other improvements.

ILLINOIS SENATOR

Scott doesn't have jobs cinched anymore

By KEN WATSON
Copley News Service

SPRINGFIELD — Illinois Republicans are beginning to look seriously for an alternative candidate for U.S. senator next year.

The alternative would be to Attorney General William J. Scott, 53, who for months was generally regarded as having the nomination sewed up. But it's far from a sure thing now.

GOP confidence in Scott was jarred at the end of May when the federal government filed a report with Federal Judge John Crowley claiming that Scott understated his taxable income by about $48,0

State's timing harms road projects, school planning

Timing is important in nearly everything, but you wouldn't know it, based on the Springfield actions and non-actions by state executive and legislative officials that are having a profound negative effect on communities like the Quad-Cities.

An example is the lack of agreement on an adequate road-building and maintenance program. In signing $2.3 billion bridge, highway and public transportation legislation, Governor James Thompson noted this week that basic road work is being slashed to $364 million from $685 million a year ago, and that $70 million in federal transportation aid will be lost if the state fails to appropriate more for roads by October.

Also, the prime construction season is passing rapidly without many highway tasks being carried out, while the General Assembly shies from a proposed cent-and-a-half-per gallon fuel tax hike that pales into insignificance when compared to recent gasoline price rises.

Uncertainty is proving especially harmful to school systems in regard to a replacement tax for local governments' corporate personal property tax. Legislators enacted an increase in the state's four percent corporate income tax to 6.85 percent. The governor plans to amend this to 6.5 percent, an action likely to be challenged as an unconstitutional broad use of his amendatory veto power.

Senate President Philip Rock says the governor has told him of plans for a special legislative session to act on the tax level adjustment. But it is planned for late August or early September, and many school districts and employees are trying to negotiate new agreements prior to the start of classes on or about Aug. 27. Their talks will have to proceed without anyone being sure of how much revenue is going to be available to them.

It is said that justice delayed can become justice denied. And this appears to apply to state decision-making that is supposed to be done by June 30 but instead drags on into July, August, September and October.

Current court isn't sure founding fathers were right

Publishers' Auxiliary — During the last few years, we have begun to seriously consider whether a majority of the justices of the United States Supreme Court understands why the founding fathers adopted the First Amendment. Let's take a look at some of the court's actions, and you'll see what we mean.

Back in 1972, the court, in the celebrated (haven't all press cases become celebrated?) case of Branzburg v. Hayes, held that reporters do not have the right to withhold information about their sources from a grand jury in a criminal investigation.

Four years later, the court, in Time Inc. vs. Firestone, made all of us shudder a bit by sweeping away some of the libel protection granted the press in New York Times vs. Sullivan by tightening the definition of who is and who is not a public figure.

Before any major decisions were handed down during the 1978 term which directly involved the press, the court, or, rather, Chief Justice Warren Burger, opened fire on us by insisting that the freedom of the press clause in the First Amendment does not confer upon the "institutional press" any freedom from government restraint not enjoyed by all others.

The founding fathers, the chief justice said in First National Bank of Boston vs. Bellotti, "did not intend to limit the freedom of the press to one select group."

The court quickly set about defining exactly what it was the chief justice meant by deciding, in Zurcher vs. Stanford Daily, that police, armed with a search warrant, can conduct a surprise search of a newsroom for evidence of a crime committed by others.

Later that same year, the court ruled, in Houchins vs. KQED (as it had in two similar cases in 1974—Pell vs. Procunier and Saxbe vs. Washington Post), that the press has no more right to access to public institutions than does the general public.

During the most recent term, the court, in Wolston vs. Readers Digest Assn. and Hutchinson vs. Proxmire, chipped away even more of the libel protection granted in Times vs. Sullivan.

And, in Herbert vs. Lando, it held that a libel plaintiff has the right to inquire into a reporter's "state of mind."

The court ended its most recent term by deciding, in Gannett Co. vs. DePascuale, that the Anglo-Saxon doctrine, and the American constitutional provision—of public court proceedings isn't a hard and fast rule.

There have been some First Amendment victories, of a fashion, along the way. But these victories, such as the decisions in the Pentagon Papers and Nebraska Press Assn. cases, have been left-handed in nature.

In these two cases, for example, the court essentially ruled that prior restraint of the press, as a general rule, is unconstitutional. It did not, in either of these cases, make a case that prior restraint is in all cases impermissible.

In all of these decisions and others, the court not only has swept away some of the rights and privileges of journalists, but, at the same time, the rights and privileges of all citizens.

The court will continue to do so as long as its members are content with illusions of the way things should be, and unable and unwilling to see reality.

Kennedy not answering questions

To the Editor:

July marks the tenth anniversary of the Kennedy-Koepchne Chappaquiddick tragedy.

A recent Harris poll shows a large majority of Democrats and Republicans believing that Senator Kennedy will run for president in 1980.

The American people deserve to know the details of the secret inquest as well as the other facts of Chappaquiddick.

Anyone aspiring to be president, with his finger on the nuclear trigger, should allow the most thorough public examination of his life, especially those areas which may involve transgression of the law.

Why did Senator Kennedy not report the tragedy until nine hours later? Why did he leave Miss Koepchne's life?

These and other contradictions and questions should be cleared up completely.

I am urging those in the media to do all that they can to bring to light the details of the tragedy so that the issue may be finally resolved before the presidential campaign heats up.

By acting now, we can avoid the potential problem of having a major investigation occur during an intense presidential campaign.

The media devoted much attention to the Three Mile Island nuclear plant malfunction recently.

Even greater attention needs to be focused on the Chappaquiddick tragedy, because it may indicate the manner in which Sen. Kennedy will react in a future crisis. After all, no one died at Three Mile Island.

DOLLAR DISCRIMINATION Women paid less in state jobs

SPRINGFIELD — Few women hold high-paying jobs in state government, an examination of state payroll records shows.

Women hold only about 10 percent of the jobs paying $20,000 and above, according to statistical information obtained from the office of Comptroller Roland Burris.

None of the current six offices of the executive branch of state government has ever been occupied by a woman. And the men haven't hired many women as their key assistants.

Gov. James Thompson has 25 employees on his executive office and general operations payroll who earn $20,000 or more. Four are women.

Of the 76 persons appointed to positions in state government, requiring confirmation by the state Senate and paying $20,000, five are women. Most, if not all, of the appointments fall under the jurisdiction of the governor.

The $20,000 figure was used as the threshold because of computer printouts which were run for purposes of complying with State Ethics Act. We examined those printouts and based our male-female figures on common first names.

Although a few females were undoubtedly overlooked, there is no mistake about the lack of women in key positions.

Li. Gov. Dave O'Neal has a small staff with five employees earning at least $20,000. One is a woman.

Secretary of State Alan Dixon has 280 employees at $20,000. Only 12 are women. Nine of the 89 high-paid employees in the office of Attorney General William Scott are women.

Of the 44 top employees in Comptroller Burris' office, three are women.

State Treasurer Jerry Cosentino has nine men and no women over $20,000.

The legislative branch of government isn't much different.

Of the 236 persons elected to serve in the General Assembly 25 are women. The Senate staff has 26 employees who are paid $20,000 or more. Three are women.

The House figures are almost the same: three of 28. The judicial branch, if anything, is even more male dominated.

Of the approximately 735 judges in the state, only 15 are women. All seven members of the Supreme Court are male and all but one (Helen McGillivuddy) of the 36 Appellate Court judges are male.

The department with apparently the highest female to male ratio in top jobs is Children and Family Services. That should come as no great surprise because women have traditionally been relegated to social service fields. In fact, three women have served as director in recent years.

should be cleared up completely.

I am urging those in the media to do all that they can to bring to light the details of the tragedy so that the issue may be finally resolved before the presidential campaign heats up.

By acting now, we can avoid the potential problem of having a major investigation occur during an intense presidential campaign.

The Granite City Park Board is actively working and planning to meet the new season which will turn out to be a very busy one.

As is always the case with governmental bodies, the limiting factor will be available resources.

Toward that end, we are studying the possibilities of federal grants to meet some of our needs.

But even beyond that, and possibly more promising, we are going to be approaching private foundations which each year contribute millions of dollars to worthwhile projects.

highest paid employees in that department are women. Of the first 140 employees checked on the printout, 60 are female.

By contrast, the Department of Transportation is male dominated. Of the first 100 employees checked, only five are female.

Here are some samples from the other code departments:

Administrative Services — eight of 146, Aging — four of 38, and Economic Development — six of 38.

Registration and Education — 10 of 33, and Local Government Affairs — five of 35.

Contrary to what some persons might think, the governor is not the highest paid state employee. In fact, 10 persons — not counting those at state colleges and universities — are paid more than the $55,000 salary of the governor. The top salary of $50,000 goes to a person in the field of education.

A physician in the Department of Public Health apparently has the distinction of being the highest paid female in the executive branch of state government. She is paid $48,108.

There are approximately 150 employees in state government — not counting judges, state's attorneys and university employees — who are paid $40,000 or more annually. Of those, 17 are women.

Illinois, of course, has not been accused of being in the forefront of the women's movement. Proponents of the Equal Rights Amendment have been fighting for seven years, without success, to have the amendment ratified in Illinois.

Energy shortage spotlights the recreational opportunities offered within Granite City park system

To the Editor:

The Granite City Park Board of Commissioners wishes to thank you for the full page which you displayed as a public service in support of our annual Fourth of July celebration.

Our thanks are also extended to Ken Spalding, assistant principal at Granite City High School, who proposed the idea.

There were certainly a number of contributing factors which made the recent celebration one of our most successful — the holiday falling in the middle of the week, the gasoline shortage, the participation of the numerous organizations who operated the various stands, the carnival itself, and, we feel, the support which your paper provided.

In the years ahead, as the energy crunch and associated fuel shortages involve each of us to an even greater extent, we believe that the citizens who turn more and more to their community to provide recreational facilities and meaningful activities.

The Park District currently offers numerous programs, most of which are as visible as the hundreds of ball games played at the various parks each summer.

The Press-Record has always assisted us in promoting these programs and, generally speaking, recognized its capacity.

As a Board we are looking for new ideas, particularly those in which the whole family can be involved.

As we have always done, we also seek the various opinions, views and ideas of the public, the taxpayers who pay the bills.

A few of the new ideas which we initiated this year evolved around the swimming pool.

On each Tuesday night we have Family Night with swimming, where the entire family can get in (with ID) for $1.15 from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Ten Nights are being held each Friday night from 8:30 to 10:30 where teens between 13 and 19 (with ID cards) can swim for 65 cents. There is also a special Splatzer Party with a live band from 7 to 10 p.m. on Friday, July 20.

Adults can swim on Saturday mornings from 10:30 to 12:30 for 65 cents (ID card required).

Senior citizens can swim free (age 65 and up) Monday through Friday from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. (ID required).

This year we also had several of our local garden clubs involved in helping to beautify our flower gardens at Wilson Park; they will be recognized at the next board meeting on July 25.

bureaucrats will each have a staff of 127 assistants, while the entire department will consist of 24,000 people, or about one and one-half bureaucrats for each of the nation's 16,000 school districts.

The department will also create nearly 1,000 new pieces of paperwork for each of those school districts, which alone will cost more than $744 million.

The new bureaucracy is part of the Carter administration's federal reorganization plans, designed for more efficient government. Essentially, the bill would remove educational matters from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and create the second new cabinet-level department since the president took office, the other being the Department of Energy.

The bill, which has been denounced by the American Federation of Teachers, was heavily opposed by members of Congress who believe that the department will do far more to harm education in the United States than it will to help America's schools, which already are overburdened by federal interference and regulation.

Rep. Edward Derwinski summed up the opposition best when he cited a newspaper editorial that labeled the legislation "a bad idea" and stated, "Of all the claims being made for the proposed Department of Education, the most incredible is that it would not grow."

Derwinski added, "It encourages bureaucratic sprawl and ignores the public need for a lean and trim federal operation...and contains (no) promise that anyone will learn more, or better, at less cost, while in school or college."

The House will now confer with the Senate, where the bill still faces stiff opposition, is expected.

New vanity plates can aid the state road fund

If 25,000 Illinois motorists purchase new vanity license plates, Illinois' suffering road fund would be enriched by a million dollars a year, Alan J. Dixon said here Tuesday.

Secretary of State Dixon was the featured speaker at a weekly luncheon of the Granite City Rotary Club at 12:30 p.m.

Dixon said he is trying to run his office like a business. He has cut his budget for the coming year more than a million dollars, and is the only elected state official to reduce his spending plan.

"We are reducing our payroll by 150 jobs," he said. "But we will provide more and better service with fewer people."

"We have a multi-year license plate which will save Illinois taxpayers $21 million over the first five years."

"We proposed the new vanity plate program which will provide special plates for Illinois motorists who want to pay for them, and will bring more revenue into the treasury."

"We will provide plates with up to six letters instead of a maximum of three. So, DICK, HARRY and MARIA can have their names on plates, as TOM and MOM and DAD do now."

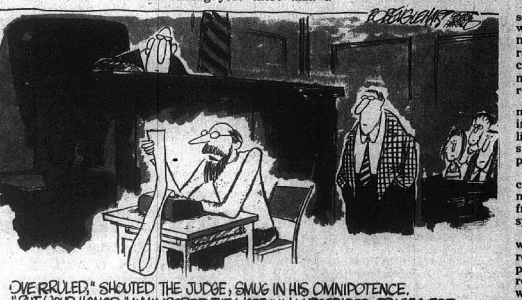

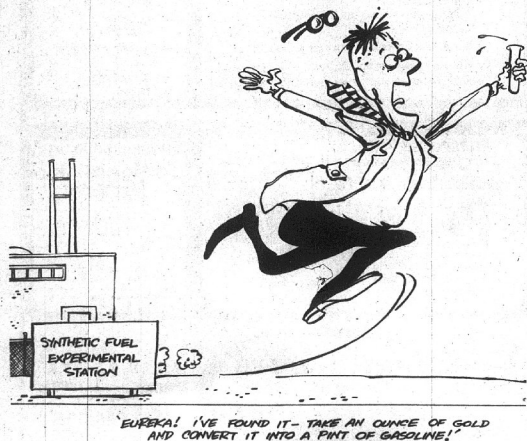

"We will charge purchasers of the new plates an extra $50, in addition to the regular fee, for the first year, and an extra $10 a year on renewals."

"If we should sell 25,000 sets of the plates, our state would realize an additional million dollars in net revenue over and above costs of the program. We need it badly to build better roads and fix potholes."

Dixon said about five million of the new "instant issuance" photo driver's licenses have been given out since he launched the program two years ago.

He is now pushing a campaign to dry up the market for stolen auto parts from the "chop shops" of syndicate thieves.

He is requiring about 700 wreckers, recyclers, rebuilders, scrap yards and parts dealers to keep better records so that an audit trail will be established for the vehicles and parts they handle, the club was told.

MORE ENERGY FOR LESS. The University Police at SIUE combined economy and efficiency to produce more energy this week as the department began campus patrolling with mopeds, backed up by more fuel-efficient autos.

The mopeds — motorized bicycles with pedals which can be used as an alternate source of power — have a top speed of 30 miles per hour and deliver between 100 and 150 miles per gallon of gasoline. Trying out the new vehicles are President Kenneth A. Shaw (center) and three police officers, Frank R. Harrison, James Fulcher and Gerald W. Cloniger. At left are Dr. Ria Prijters, vice president for business affairs, and Charles McDonald, the university's director of public safety and chief of police. McDonald said the mopeds will be used on campus trails and in other areas not accessible by automobile.

GC arrests up 37%

Arrests by Granite City police during the first six months of this year increased by 37.5 percent over those of the same period in 1978, while the total number of charges filed in all arrest cases rose 40 percent over those in the first half of last year, according to a report released by Chief of Police Ronald J. Veizer.

Veizer's report listed a total of 2,702 arrests during the six-month period, an increase of 870 over the 1,965 arrests during the first six months in 1978. In addition, he said, a total of 385 charges were filed in connection with those 2,702 arrests, bringing total charges for the period to 3,087.

During the first half of the 1978 year, police filed 202 additional charges in the 1,965 arrests made during that period, bringing the total number of charges to 2,167, the report shows.

Meets intruder at front door

Frances Martin, 2022 rear Cleveland Blvd., arriving home at 2:50 p.m. Monday, found the downstairs front entrance door open.

As she entered, a man ran passed her, carrying a brown bag, and when Mrs. Martin asked what he was doing there he fled down the street.

The door to Mrs. Martin's apartment was open and cabinets and drawers were ransacked.

A television had been moved to a point near the door and a wallet was on the floor. The only item that appeared to be missing was a ring.

The door to a second upstairs apartment was open and the rooms had been searched. A crystal candy dish and glasses had been placed on the floor.

An inventory is being compiled.

ENTERS PLEA

Gene W. Ray, 31, Collinsville, has been sentenced to serve two years of probation and to pay a $100 fine after pleading guilty to a felony count of theft, stemming from a March 16 incident in this area, according to court records. Circuit Judge Harold R. Clark pronounced sentence.

month a year ago, Veizer reported.

He said a total of 389 arrests were made last month, an increase of 77, or 24.6 percent over the 312 arrests made in the same month a year ago. A total of 56 additional charges were filed in last month's arrest cases, bringing to 445 the total number of charges filed last month.

This compared with the filing of 48 additional charges to the 202 arrests made in June 1978, for a total of 360 charges filed in that month.

On this basis, the total of 445 charges filed last month was an increase of 85, or 23.6 percent, over the 360 total charges filed in June a year ago.

The report said a total of 210 crimes in eight major categories occurred in Granite City last month, a decrease of 25 below 235 crimes reported in the same month a year ago. All of the reduction, however, occurred in two of the eight categories.

Larceny cases during June dropped from 127 in the same month in 1978 to 97 last month, a total drop of 30 such cases. Burglaries declined by seven from 48 cases in June 1978 to 41 last month.

In two categories, the number of June crimes this year was identical to the number of the same month a year ago. Two robberies were reported last month, the same as in June 1978, and 29 auto burglaries occurred during the month, the same number as a year ago.

There were no criminal homicide cases last month and no forcible rape cases, the report showed. There

Arrest halts loud music

An officer went to 1721 Spring Ave., at 11:45 p.m. Monday in response to a complaint that loud music was coming from the dwelling.

John E. Stamps, 19, of that address, who was asked to turn down the volume, allegedly told the officer they stay out of the yard, but then complied with the request when other officers arrived at the scene.

A few moments later, police were notified the music was turned up at an even louder volume. They returned to a point near the house where they saw two men on the front porch and allegedly could hear the music.

When officers approached the door, the men went inside, locked the door and initially refused to answer the officer's knock.

Stamps was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct when he opened the door. The second man, a guest, was not charged.

Retired GCS employee dies

Word has been received of the death on June 28 of Austin "Bud" Carter, 57, of Indian Mound, Tenn., a former Granite City resident for 25 years.

Services were held July 1 at a funeral chapel in Dover, Tenn., with burial at Fairview Cemetery in Indian Mound.

Mr. Carter died at Clarksville (Tenn.) Memorial Hospital after a short illness. He was a native of Stewart County, Tenn., and had moved back to Tennessee upon retiring in 1974 from Granite City Steel.

Mr. Carter was employed 23 years in the Open Hearth Department at the local steel plant.

He was a member of the Baptist faith.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Comilla "Dolly" Downs Carter, whom he married Oct. 12, 1940; a daughter, Brenda A. Austin, Big Rock, Tenn.; two stepsons, Carl L. Coleman and Troy E. Coleman, both of Granite City; a brother, Otto Carter, Erin, Tenn.; two sisters, Laura Downs and Anna Mae Hankins, both of Cumberland City, Tenn.; 11 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Truck license plate deadline

The deadline for new 1979-1980 license plates for second division vehicles to be displayed is midnight Saturday, Secretary of State Alan J. Dixon has reminded Illinois motorists.

The legal deadline of June 30 was extended by three weeks to give farmers and truckers additional time to purchase plates. This will be the last year a deadline may be extended for either passenger vehicles or fiscal year plates.

Second division plates include trucks, semi-trailers, trailers, farm trucks or tractors. Many financial institutions will sell truck and trailer plates over the counter until the deadline.

Charges result from incident

After a man and a youth allegedly were harassing a group of 60 handicapped persons spending some time in Wilson Park at 1:40 p.m. Monday, the pair was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct.

Charged were John Cooper, 21, of 2405 Jerden Ave., and a 14-year-old Granite City youth.

A supervisor for the group said the two were seated on a vehicle and were whistling and calling to those in her charge.

The same auto allegedly was seen in the vicinity of the group July 13 when another incident of possible harassment had taken place.

Cooper was released on notice to appear, in lieu of payment of $35 cash bond, at 2:30 p.m. Monday. A $35 cash bond also was set on the juvenile, who was released a short time earlier.
